ROOSEVELT HAS 468 ELECTORAL VOTES

Democrats Ride to Control of Senate and House

Party Gets 239 Seats In House

Any Vestige of Doubt Concerning Senate Is Gone With at Least 15-Seat Victory

Top Men Win
Leading Figures in Both Parties Retain Their Positions

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Democrats, riding a tide of votes with President Roosevelt, kept control of both House and Senate in Tuesday's election.

An official tabulation showed they had won 239 House seats, for more than a majority, to 121 for the Republicans. In addition, one incumbent American Laborite was re-elected. A majority is 218.

Contrary to Republican predictions that they would gain from 50 to 80 seats, the returns indicated that the Democrats might win a few more than their present House strength of 238. The Democrats have held control of the House since John N. Garner, now vice president, was chosen speaker in 1931, and of the Senate since victors in the first Roosevelt landslide of 1932 took office on March 4, 1933.

Their majority in the new Senate, convening next January 3, was hardly in danger but any vestige of doubt was eliminated when the tabulation showed they had won at least 15 of the 25 Democratic seats at stake in this year's balloting.

These added to 44 holdover Senate seats. The Senate has 96 members, of which a third are filled every two years.

Republicans, with 15 holdovers, retained at least five of their nine seats at stake and captured two seats now held by Democrats. This gives them a tentative bloc of 22 seats. One of their victories dates back to Maine's September election.

Present Composition of House

The present composition of the House, in addition to the 258 Democrats, is 167 Republicans, 2 Progressives, 1 Farmer-Labor, 1 American Labor and 6 vacancies—3 of which formerly were held by Democrats and 3 by Republicans. The Democrats apparently made at least a net gain of 9 in the House. Democrats ousted four Republicans in Connecticut and four in Pennsylvania, two in Ohio, and two in Rhode Island and one each in New York, West Virginia and Delaware.

As an offset, the Republicans won six seats now held by Democrats by taking over three districts in Illinois and one each in Oklahoma, New York and California.

All the top men of the House Democratic and Republican leadership were re-elected.

Rayburn Unopposed

Speaker Sam Rayburn was unopposed in his Texas district. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, House Democratic leader, and Patrick J. Boland of Pennsylvania, House Democratic whip, also won. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader who predicted that his party would take over that chamber, was victorious in his race. Rep. Englebright of California, House Republican whip, was unopposed.

Defeated Republicans included Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" of baseball, who was beaten in Maryland by William D. Byron, Democratic incumbent. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor incumbent from New York who opposed all defense measures, won handily. Democratic senatorial victors included Andrews of Florida, Bilbo of Mississippi, Connally of Texas, Byrd of Virginia and McKellar of Tennessee, all incumbents from the solid South.

New Six Year Terms

New six year terms in the Senate also were won by Guffey of Pennsylvania, Gerry of Rhode Island, Maloney of Connecticut, Walsh of Massachusetts, Radcliffe of Maryland and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, all incumbents.

Democrats held substantial leads in Senate races in Arizona, Kentucky, Washington, New Mexico, Nevada, and Missouri. Republicans re-elected included Senator Austin of Vermont, assistant Republican leader; the veteran Hiram Johnson of California and Barbour of New Jersey.

Frontier dispatches said Greek mountain fighters today entered the city of Koritza, in Albania, and captured thousands of the 30,000 Italian troops under siege there.

The reported seizure—of true—marked the first major victory in the 10-day-old Balkan conflict, and presumably disrupted the Italian supply route for a projected invasion into western Macedonia. Greece's high command said retreating Italian troops were shelled by their own tanks as Greek warriors stormed and captured hill fortifications guarding Koritza.

A Greek communiqué said many Italian prisoners were taken in the battle on the Koritza heights, along with artillery, Howitzers and machine-guns.

Republicans to Get Bigger Hold Upon State Legislature

Party Gains Three More Seats in Senate, and Two in Assembly, Where Margin Is 87-63

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Republicans were assured today of increased control of New York's legislature for two more years as final election returns gave the party three more seats in the Senate and two in the assembly.

Three Democratic Senate veterans, Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., John T. McCall, New York city, and Rae L. Egbert, Rockland county, were unseated by Republican opponents to give the GOP 30 to 21 domination in the smaller house.

Both parties swapped seats in nearly a dozen districts but the Republicans came out with two additional representatives, giving them an 87 to 63 margin.

The American Labor Party, meanwhile, lost its sole assembly seat with defeat of Oscar Garcia-Rivera, New York city, but nearly a score of Republicans and Democrats elected had ALP endorsement.

Willkie Carries City by Plurality Of 391; Conway Beats Cook in City

Wendell L. Willkie carried the city of Kingston by a plurality of 391 votes at Tuesday's election in which some surprising results were shown with three local Democrats carrying the city, but meeting defeat as the votes from the county, outside the city, began rolling in.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, who was elected county judge, carried the city over Andrew J. Cook by a majority of 39 votes. The fight between Cook and Conway was one of the highlights in the local political campaign.

While the entire Republican county ticket was elected by large majorities, George J. Mutari of Saugerties carried the city by 162 votes for representative in Congress; Attorney N. Jansen Fowler candidate for assembly carried the city by 386 votes, while Robert A. Donnaruma, Democratic candidate for coroner, carried the city by a small majority.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, who was re-elected, ran way ahead of his ticket in Kingston, carrying the city by 1,676 votes, while Chester A. Lyons, the successful Republican candidate for county treasurer, carried the city by 943 votes.

'We, of Course, Face Difficult Days'

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Cordially...New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie today telegraphed President Roosevelt congratulations on his re-election.

At 10:30 a. m., E.S.T., Willkie's press secretary, Lem Jones, gave out the text as follows:

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President of the United States,
Hyde Park, New York.

Congratulations on your re-election as President of the United States. I know that we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election. I wish you all personal health and happiness. Cordially, WENDELL L. WILLKIE

Roosevelt's Name Has Lost None of Its Voting Magic

In Addition to Backing of Policies, Third Term Precedent Is Smashed; '38 Trend Lost

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The name of Franklin D. Roosevelt has lost none of its vote-getting magic. With one more swift operation, it has conjured out of the polling booths millions of votes which were pointing to triumph and four more years in the White House, thereby toppling the third term precedent and giving a rousing endorsement to his foreign policy.

Beyond that, it reversed a political trend which began in the congressional election of 1938. In that election, when Democrats were running for House and Senate alone and unsheltered by the Roosevelt name, they lost seats right and left. This time, they apparently not only held control of the Senate and House, but picked up a few seats in the latter. A few Senators, however, appeared to have fallen by the way. If the Republicans could have held the ground they gained in

London Papers Hail Roosevelt's Election

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—London newspapers today hailed President Roosevelt's lead for re-election as a blow at Adolf Hitler and welcome news for Britain.

An editorial in the Evening Star said "all the influence which Hitler was able to bring to bear was thrown against him (Roosevelt)," and added:

"We heartily welcome the American decision. Germany cannot mistake its implications. It is one of a growing number of signs that the tide is setting against tyranny and will finally engulf it."

The London newspapers gave the vote the widest prominence they ever accorded an American election.

Berlin Is Silent

Berlin, Nov. 6 (AP)—Authorized circles declined to comment today on news of President Roosevelt's apparent re-election, declaring German reaction would depend entirely on the President's post-election "attitude and actions."

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—Britain has advanced £6,000,000 ($20,000,000) in credits to Greece for war supplies, the foreign office announced today.

Baldwin and Vanderbilt Lose in Rhode Island; Nebraska and Illinois G.O.P. Victories

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Democrats won 14 victories and the Republicans marked up seven—with a net gain of one for the Democrats—in 33 contests for governorships yesterday.

The Democrats ousted two New England Republican governors—Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut and William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island—along with Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan, foe of "high life" drinking.

Robert A. Hurley won in Connecticut, J. Howard McGrath in Rhode Island and Murray D. Van Wagener in Michigan.

Partly offsetting these switches, however, the Republicans won seats in two midwestern states.

Dwight Griswold defeated Terry Carpenter in Nebraska and Dwight H. Green won from Harry B. Hershey in Illinois.

Carries Kingston

Mutari, Loser, Carries City; Willkie Given Plurality

Ulster county remained in the Republican ranks as a result of Tuesday's election returning majorities to Wendell L. Willkie, and the state ticket, and electing all of its county candidates by majorities of from 4,500 to 9,000.

While the expected majorities for the national ticket was considerably reduced by the unexpected heavy vote cast for President Roosevelt, the majority given Willkie shows that the county is still one of the Republican strongholds of the state.

The result locally was expected, and came as no surprise, although intense interest was centered on the campaign waged by County Judge Andrew J. Cook to retain his seat and defeat his Republican opponent, Assemblyman J. Edward Conway. Conway, however, was elected county judge by a majority of 4,560.

Mutari Carries City

The fight waged by George J. Mutari of Saugerties against Congressman Lewis K. Rockefeller was a hot one in the city with Mutari carrying Kingston, but being overwhelmed with the vote rolled up for Rockefeller in the county, outside the city, and throughout the congressional district.

Supervisor John F. Wadlin of Highland had no difficulty in defeating Attorney N. Jansen Fowler of this city for member of assembly, although Fowler carried the city by a small majority.

Wicks Wins

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, R., was re-elected for his eighth term, by an overwhelming majority. The senator ran in three counties, Ulster, Greene and Delaware. Unofficial figures give his majority over Jacob J. Schneider as close to 20,000.

Congressman Lewis K. Rockefeller of Chatham, Columbia county, was returned to office by a majority estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000.

Congressman Rockefeller's home county, Columbia, gave him a majority of 3,464. The congressman ran in five counties, Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Sullivan and Schoharie.

Ulster Results

The vote cast for the Republican and Democratic candidates in Ulster county, including Kingston, to which is added the vote cast by the American Labor Party, on which ticket the Democratic candidates were also running, follows:

Popularity Drops From '36 Figure

Tradition-Buster Is Given Ovation by Hyde Park Crowd at His Home

McNary Concedes

Willkie Running Mate Concedes Election Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt, the precedent-breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions today with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slambang campaign.

Throughout last evening Willkie sat in his hotel room, analyzing the returns and watching the President amass commanding leads in virtually all the key states having big blocks of electoral votes. But grimly, he clung to a dwindling hope of victory, and finally he retired with the announcement that not until today would he have anything to say on the election's outcome.

McNary Concedes

Meanwhile, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's running-mate, conceded a victory for Mr. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The President spent last evening at his Hyde Park home, where in 1932 and 1936 he saw himself elected to the presidency, and where, just as in both those years, his happy neighbors thronged the spreading lawns and serenaded him with bugles and drums.

Promptly at midnight, Mr. Roosevelt greeted the serenaders from the portico. "Full returns" were lacking, he said, but the situation looked "all right."

"We, of course, face difficult days," he said. "But I think you will find me in the future just the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known for years."

The full extent of the President's victory could not be measured finally in advance of a more complete tabulation of the votes of several states.

Nevertheless, at 10:45 a. m., E. S. T., it appeared that his election had been accomplished with 468 of the country's 531 electoral votes. The number required for election is 266. Indications were that his popular plurality would prove considerably less than the margin of more than 10,000,000 by which he was elected in 1936.

The wide Roosevelt margin was eloquent of the decision a majority of the electorate had rendered in choosing between their present Chief Executive and the nation's third term tradition which for 150 years had stood as a barrier against more than two terms in the White House for any man.

It was the first time the ancient precedent received a clear cut test at the polls, and for the legion of Roosevelt voters, the result was what they had anticipated in the light of disturbed world conditions.

In great states and small, from New Hampshire to California, the citizens who exercised democracy's right of franchise yesterday seemingly rejected the Republican candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie by an overwhelming electoral majority and returned the New Deal to Washington with possibly greater power than heretofore.

Late reports indicated that not only the presidency but also some additional seats in the House and Senate were gathered up in the Democratic vote harvest. With more than half of the 432 congressional contests decided the Democrats had a net gain of seven House seats. Thirteen Democrats and five Republicans were elected to the Senate. The Democratic majority was certain anyway—but close senatorial races developed in half a dozen states.

Tide Runs for F.D.R.

The tide of ballots ran heavily in Mr. Roosevelt's favor almost from the first—ballots he had asked as a "vote of confidence" in his administration, born in the domestic crisis year of 1933 and now given another four-year tenure in the international crisis year of 1940.

Yet the margins in some states continued close for many hours after returns started pouring in and Willkie had not conceded defeat early today.

Incomplete returns showed Mr. Roosevelt leading in 37 states with 433 electoral votes as against Willkie's lead in 11 states with 98 votes. After telling his followers a post-midnight speech at his New York hotel not to be "afraid or disheartened," Willkie retired with the announcement that he would make no statement before mid-morning (10 a. m., E.S.T.).

But Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's vice-presidential running mate, acknowledged defeat and sent his congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, Henry A. Wallace.

"We shall try to afford Mr. Roosevelt and his associates a worthy and vigilant opposition," McNary said in a statement at Salem, Oregon. "Today's trend indicates a victory for our principles four years hence."

President at Hyde Park

The President was at Hyde Park, N. Y., with his family. There a procession of neighbors called on him in triumphant torchlight parade last night, and he told them the vote "looks all right."

Wallace, in Washington where he had watched his home state of Iowa stick tenaciously in the Republican column, said he was "gratified" at the early trend of voting, but he retired without other comment before the ticket on which he held second place swept to such commanding victory in the 11 states in which Willkie held a margin early today were widely scattered, and while predominantly agricultural, included some industrial centers. They were Colorado, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

Indications were that the total vote cast broke all previous records despite unfavorable weather in some sections of the country. But the broken record which made this election unique was the return of a president to office for a third term.

The tradition which fell with Mr. Roosevelt's victory dated back almost to the founding of the republic with George Washington. In 1797, declined to stand for another four years in office in addition to the eight he already had served.

The very first vote report came from the village of Sharon, New Hampshire. The 31 ballots, tabulated at 12 minutes after midnight (E. S. T.) Tuesday, were divided 24 for Willkie and seven for Roosevelt.

Lead See-Saws

Eighteen hours after the real flow of returns began from city, town and country crossroads in the nation. In many states the lead see-sawed now to Mr. Roosevelt, the "champ" as Willkie once called him, and now to the Republican challenger.

But from the start the President, his totals swelled by the sure votes of the "solid south," was out in front and his indicated electoral vote was well over the 266 required for election.

On the basis of one of the first general tabulations in early evening the states to appear in the Democratic column were Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Willkie's home state of Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Maine, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Texas. In the Republican column were Colorado, Connecticut, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska and New Hampshire.

Indiana, however, proved a hard state to hold, switching allegiance several times as the count progressed—usually by a mere few hundred votes.

Off to a good start, Mr. Roosevelt soon captured a lead in Connecticut and added Maryland and Virginia. Willkie took the lead in Maine—and held it although the Democratic total there exceeded expectations. He also temporarily acquired Rhode Island and Illinois.

Pennsylvania's March

Ohio, like Illinois, first went into the Republican column. Then Pennsylvania started the march of populous states for the Democrats and Willkie's lead in Ohio dwindled until the count turned into a Democratic majority. Republicans looked with desperate hope toward New York, where late closing of the polls delayed all hint of how the vote would go for them in the all important Empire State.

By 10 p. m. E. S. T., Mr. Roosevelt had gained the lead in states with 364 electoral votes while Willkie was mustering 121 electoral votes.

New York, among others, still was silent but the Republican candidate steadily built up a commanding lead in New Jersey—home of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee. At times his New Jersey vote was as much as two to one over Mr. Roosevelt's. This was a ray of hope for Jersey's voting habits normally paralleled those of New York in a presidential year.

About this time Mr. Roosevelt telephoned from Hyde Park to Edward J. Flynn, the Democratic national chairman, in New York city, that he was "very confident" of reelection.

In New York city, a still optimistic Willkie commented that the contest was a "horse race." The result, he said, would not be known until Wednesday.

Ahead at 11 p. m.

However when 11 p. m. (E. S. T.) came, Mr. Roosevelt was ahead in states with 427 electoral votes and the Willkie total had dwindled to 104. Among the Republican states was Vermont, with its three electoral votes. That state, which alone kept Maine company in the wide open spaces of the Republican column in the 1936 presidential election, was the first to report its count completed. The result was 78,355 for Willkie and 64,244 for Roosevelt.

By midnight President Roosevelt had a narrow lead in the first rush of returns from New York state and its prize of 47 electoral votes.

Jackle Says Party Position Is Stronger

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Chairman Edwin F. Jackle of the Republican state committee, despite defeat of the party's presidential candidate, asserted today that Republicans had substantially strengthened their position in New York state.

The party registered "strong gains in the state," he said, listing as "notable" among them an "increase in Republican control of the state assembly and state senate, indicating a complete confidence by the people of state in the Republican legislative policies and office."

velt fold at which time were such populous and powerful states as Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, California, Ohio, Missouri, and again the capricious Indiana. The President's tentative electoral vote then stood at 440 and Willkie's at 91.

Newspapers which supported Willkie's candidacy meanwhile began to concede Democratic triumph. These included the New York Times, the Detroit Free Press, the Kansas City Star, the Portland Oregonian, and the Baltimore Sun.

Not long after midnight the Democratic score moved up tentatively to 433 electoral votes, while Willkie held on to 11 states. That added up to 98 electoral ballots. Those states were Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

Early today Mr. Roosevelt's lead in New York state which has 47 electoral votes had grown to more than a quarter million in nearly 6,000,000 ballots counted. In Pennsylvania, the Republican state chairman conceded that state's 36 electoral votes had gone to the Democratic candidate.

Within a short time after Vermont completed its vote count, Connecticut and Rhode Island followed with their final totals. Connecticut yielded 417,858 for Roosevelt and 361,889 for Willkie; Rhode Island gave 181,881 for Roosevelt and 138,431 for Willkie.

All Others Returned

All other Senate incumbents who sought reelection were returned.

Republicans who won assembly seats occupied by Democrats in the 1940 legislative session included Lewis W. Olliffe, Kings; Francis E. Dorn, Kings; Henry J. Latham, Queens; George Archinal, Queens; J. Eugene Zimmer, Rensselaer, and Robert Doscher, Rockland.

Their defeated opponents included Democratic Assemblymen W. Hawkins, William C. McCrory, Daniel E. Fitzpatrick, Joseph Teagle and Philip J. Casey, respectively. Doscher defeated Matthew J. Sweeney, who replaced Lawrence J. Murray, Jr., on the Democratic ticket.

Uptate Democratic gains were registered in Erie where Fred Hammer defeated William J. Butler, Republican incumbent, and in Monroe where Nelson E. Owen, Jr., unseated Republican Assemblyman Pat Provenzano.

In New York, Morris M. Mintz, Democrat, defeated Meyer Goldberg, Republican incumbent; Garcia-Rivera lost to Hurlan E. Jack, Democrat, and Joseph J. Clough, Democrat, won a present Republican seat.

All legislative leaders were re-elected by comfortable margins including Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, Schenectady Republican, Senate Minority Leader Joe R. Hanley, Senate Minority Leader John J. Dunnigan, Assembly Majority Leader Irving Ives and Assembly Minority Leader Irwin Steingut.

The three defeated senators, including McCall, a veteran of 11 campaigns, lost by relatively few votes. Nunan was defeated by less than 1,000 votes.

Idaho, Indiana, Missouri, Utah and Washington, while Republicans were ahead in Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana and Wisconsin.

Victorious Democratic gubernatorial candidates included Eugene Talmadge, Georgia; former Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia; W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas, and John E. Miles, New Mexico.

Massachusetts' Republican governor, Leverett Saltonstall, was keeping ahead of Democrat Paul A. Dever, although his state gave President Roosevelt a good-sized majority over Wendell L. Willkie. In Kansas, although Willkie led Roosevelt by more than 100,000 votes, incumbent Gov. Payne H. Ratner, Republican, was able to build up only a slight lead over William H. Burke, Democrat.

President Is Waiting

Hyde Park, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt is waiting to make public his pre-election forecast when the returns are more definite, his aides said today. The President made a written "guess" about two weeks ago and an-1938 and taken New York, Wendell L. Willkie would have moved into the White House, come January. Republicans, outvoted the Democrats then in enough states to have swung the election if they could have sustained that performance and offset the margin which the American Labor party contributed to the Democrats in New York.

Gains Melt

But as the figures marched in from Tuesday's voting, those gains melted. Eleven of the 21 states where those gains made headway had fallen in step with the Roosevelt onsway by the early morning hours, although not all returns were complete. One or two others seemed likely to go before the counting was over.

One by one, they crumbled—Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Wyoming. Then came New York to deal the final blow to Republican hopes.

Of the states that still held to Willkie, and in which the Republicans had gained ground in 1938, were left just Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota, Maine and Vermont. Nor were several of these too sure. Elsewhere he held a lead in Colorado where the Democrats had possessed a comfortable margin of the 1938 votes.

Such an overturn of votes, a wrestling away from the Republicans of an advantage they had gained the hard way two years ago, was accomplished by neither an ordinary campaign nor by the thrashing out of ordinary issues.

Years Are Forgotten

The years in which Republican publicity men and speakers had drummed away at the mounting public debt, at charges that the New Deal was stifling business and breeding class hatred apparently were forgotten in the ballot boxes of Tuesday. And, in the exhortation of John L. Lewis, the CIO chieftain, to labor to choose between him and President Roosevelt.

What happened was an indicated electoral majority so substantial that Mr. Roosevelt might easily take it again as a mandate to go full speed ahead with both his domestic and his foreign program.

That he will proceed with the foreign policies already mapped out is certain. On the domestic side, there are few new measures that have been brought out of the White House in the last year or so. Mr. Roosevelt has said that most of the changes he envisaged for the nation have been made, that what remained to be done was to make more effective the tools of government that already had been forged.

However, he has given assurance that there would be no letdown in the drive to attain the social objectives that were laid down long ago by his administration.

But already the nation has turned the key that locked the White House door against more than two terms in office. What that third term of the first man to try one will bring only the pages of unwritten history can tell.

Chester Lyons, the successful Republican candidate for county treasurer, made a most excellent run, being given 26,071 votes, a majority of 6,403 more than the vote given Eugene F. Thornton.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Liquidation in the wake of the election hit leading stocks for losses of 1 to more than 3 points in today's market.

Blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares turned over at the start. A comeback then got under way but further selling in the fourth hour put prices at low marks of the day. Despite slow intervals, transfers were at the rate of about 1,400,000 shares.

Among isolated gainers near the final period were Homestake Mining and Dome Mines, gold producers that in recent weeks have done virtually nothing.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem, up at one time, eventually stumbled. Utilities were among the weakest. Bonds and commodities were moderately irregular. Securities at London edged higher.

Principal share losers included Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., North American, Columbia Gas, American Water Works, du Pont, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of N. J., Phelps Dodge, Chrysler and Dow Chemical. Rails, coppers and rubbers were narrow.

Commonwealth & Southern opened one hour and three quarters late on a block of 35,000 shares at 1 1/2, down 1/2 from Monday's final price.

Heavy offerings in the curb cut down such issues as American Gas, Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson Power and Cities Service. Up occasionally were Bell Aircraft and International Petroleum.

Election Bonfires Keep Firemen Busy

Two bell and four telephone calls kept the fire department busy Tuesday night to extinguish election night bonfires. The bell calls were Box 2311, Hasbrouck avenue and Murray street, at 6:55 o'clock that evening, and Box 2421, Delaware avenue and Hanratty street, at 9:14 o'clock.

At 9:20 o'clock the department received a telephone call for a bonfire on Athletic Field; at 9:39 o'clock for a fire of Fuller shirt plant; at 9:40 for a bonfire at Second avenue and More street, and at 10 o'clock for another bonfire in the rear of St. Mary's Church.

Garner to Decide Whether He Will Return to Capital

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 6 (AP)—John Nance Garner, who did not vote in the election, said he would "decide tomorrow" whether he would return to Washington for the remainder of the congressional session.

Dressed in khaki and leather jacket, the vice-president emerged from his home, hurried to his housing project of 40 low-rent homes now under construction, and refused to talk of the election. "What are your future plans?" he was asked.

"I will decide tomorrow," replied Garner.

"Does that include whether you will go back to Washington?" "Yes," he said.

The vice-president, watching carpenters at work on the project, would not comment on his failure to vote. Mrs. Garner, his secretary, Louis Friday, and a thousand or more Uvalde citizens voted yesterday.

The county where Garner had been an office seeker 44 years gave President Roosevelt an approximate four-to-one lead over Wendell Willkie in incomplete returns.

Last night, in contrast with election night four years ago, there was no election "watch party" at the Garner home.

Lights went out at 7:30 p. m. and the Garners retired. It was an early hour, even for Cactus Jack. In 1932, Garner sat up until about 9 o'clock receiving returns and neighbors were in and out long after that.

MT. TREMPER

The Ladies' Sewing society met at the home of Mrs. Burt Winne, Thursday afternoon. Among the ladies attending this meeting were: Mrs. Grace Randall, Mrs. Martha Carman, Mrs. Frank Carle, Mrs. Norman Wilber, Mrs. Loren Buley, Mrs. Maude Hoyt, Thelma and Miss Ruth Wilber, Mrs. E. H. Hutter, Mrs. J. H. Winne.

There was a delightful Halloween luncheon of sandwiches, fancy cakes, ice cream and coffee. The meeting Thursday, November 7, will be held at the home of Mrs. George Byron.

Miss Ruth J. Wilber returned home Tuesday after a visit with relatives in New York.

There was a good attendance at Sunday school Sunday morning. This is very gratifying to all those who are working hard to reorganize it again.

Mr. and Mrs. George Byron returned home after a visit to New York.

A Grange party was held Friday evening at the hall. The Grange will hold its regular meeting Friday evening, November 8. There will be election of officers for the ensuing year. All members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Fannie Wentworth of Albany has been visiting here since and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Every, and family.

Mrs. Grace Randall and Miss Leita Randall, have closed their home here and have gone to Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowers and daughter, Gertrude, of New York, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powers.

Berton Gardner of New York is spending a few days at his home here. He will return to his position in New York after election.

Private Norman Wilson of the 15th Field Artillery, Fort Dix, N. J., spent the week-end at his home here.

Harry Carle has a position in New York.

Mrs. Nellie Hinsdale and daughter, Margaret, son, Billy, of Kingston, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Loren Buley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Randall and son, of Kingston, spent Sunday here.

A Halloween party was held at the school Thursday afternoon. There were the usual games and refreshments. There was no school Friday for both high school pupils of Kingston and local pupils. Those attending Fleischman's High School had to attend Friday since they had two days off last week, when teachers conference was held.

Floyd Wilber and son, Clarence, of Kingston, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilber.

A number of hunters were in the vicinity over the week-end.

How County Voted In 1936 Election

Landon Polled Substantial Lead Over F.D.R.

For those who like to make comparisons some majorities given in Ulster county at the last presidential election, in 1936, are listed:

Landon and Knox, Rep., total vote 24,681; Roosevelt and Garner, Dem., 18,649, plus 469 American Labor votes. Landon plurality in county, including Kingston, 5,563.

Other county majorities were: Goodwin, Rep., Congress, 7,179; Wicks, Rep., State Senate, 8,037.

Conway, Rep., Assembly, 8,194; Traver, Rep., for county judge, and DuBois, Rep., for coroner, ran unopposed in 1936.

There were five presidential tickets in the field in 1936, polling votes as follows:

Republican	24,681
Democrat	18,649
Socialist	762
Communist	53
American Labor	469

Total ..... 44,614

of the 100-mile front, despite the superiority of Italian arms and manpower.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Fascist invasion forces had driven off Greek attacks between Lake Presba and Kapestica Pass, in the north, after violent fighting.

British warplanes bombed the Naples area in southern Italy during the night, the Fascist high command disclosed, killing 14 persons and wounding 10. It was the third raid on Naples in less than a week.

Other RAF bombers struck punishing blows at the big German naval base at Emden, the London air ministry reported, starting 30 spectacular fires among petroleum tanks there and heavily bombing shipyards at Bremerhaven and Bremen.

Night raiders also pounded the German-held forts across the English Channel at Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque, Antwerp and Flushing.

London Gets Raid

London itself underwent the longest night air-raid alarm of the war, with "lone wolf" Nazi fliers droning overhead from dusk yesterday until the all-clear signal finally sounded at 8:30 a. m.

In the wake of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's grave comment yesterday on British shipping losses, indications arose of a possible extension of the German blockade of England.

The fate of a British convoy attacked by a German raider in mid-Atlantic was undetermined, with no further word from the 16,698-ton passenger liner Rangitiki and the freighter Cornish City after their radio distress call yesterday that they were "being gunned" by an enemy ship of the "Admiral Graf Spee" class.

Coincidentally, the German high command asserted that 7,160,200 tons of "enemy shipping" have been sunk by Nazi warcraft since the outbreak of the war 14 months ago.

Another Greek communique said 291 civilians were killed and 690 injured in Greek cities bombed and machine-gunned in the first nine days of the war.

The bombing of the Yugoslav town of Bitol, northeast of the Greek-Albanian frontier, was blamed upon the Italians by the Greek communique.

World War Mail Found In France by Germans

LEHRTE, GERMANY.—A former cavalryman who served in southwest Africa in the World war has received back as "undeliverable" two post cards which he mailed from Warmbad in southwest Africa to girlfriends in Lehrte 26 years ago. They had been confiscated by French authorities in July, 1914, and recovered and sent on by German authorities when they entered Fresnoy near Maubeuge this summer.

HALF MILLION JAM TIMES SQUARE FOR RETURNS

This is how New York's Times Square looked election night as 500,000 persons jammed together to watch returns flashed. Important pro-Willkie newspapers and Senator Charles L. McNary, Republican vice-presidential nominee, conceded the re-election of President Roosevelt, but Wendell L. Willkie, himself doggedly refused to concede a thing.

ROOSEVELT AND FAMILY GREET VILLAGERS

This was the general scene at midnight as President Roosevelt and his family appeared on the portico of the Chief Executive's Hyde Park, N. Y., residence to greet the villagers. With "full returns" still lacking, the President told the gathering that "it looks all right" and that he thought in the future they would find him "just the same Franklin Roosevelt you've known a great many years."

'THINGS LOOK PERFECTLY FINE'

Hardy Steelholm (left), unsuccessful candidate to unseat Hamilton Fish as U. S. representative from President Roosevelt's home district in Dutchess county, shakes hands with the smiling Chief Executive on the portico of Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., residence. The President, addressing villagers gathered on the lawn of his home, said "things look perfectly fine."

Fight Over Beer Leads to Slashing

Sam Perry, Negro, Is Held on Assault Charge

Sam Perry, 53, a negro of 3 Canal street, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning on a charge of slashing Henry Terry, another negro, with a can opener shortly after 2 o'clock this morning on Canal street.

According to the police the two men had an argument over the price of four cans of beer, and Perry was accused of slashing Terry on the face and neck with a can opener.

Terry had his wounds dressed at the Benedictine Hospital.

James J. Casey, of Chichester, picked up on a technical charge of vagrancy last night, was discharged when arraigned in court. Behind that fact was an interesting story. It developed that Casey was picked up by the police in the belief that he had helped himself to a barber's kit of tools from a parked car on Cornell street and had sold the kit and contents to a local man.

The local man at first identified Casey as the man who sold him the kit, but later changed the identification claiming that Joseph Stornick of New Haven, Conn., also arrested yesterday on a vag-

Late Parade Staged To Observe Victory

Kingston Democrats, joined later by some of the supporters of President Roosevelt from the outside districts, staged a victory parade last night that, judging from the amount of noise made, should have helped considerably in properly expressing their exuberance over the outcome of the national election.

As the drift toward the President became more pronounced about 11 o'clock, cars began to gather on central Broadway and about midnight the celebration started. Headed by a loud-speaker truck and with horns doing a continuous performance a line of about 100 cars toured the city for nearly an hour and a half.

rancy charge, was the man who sold him the kit.

Stornick confessed he had taken the kit and sold it and Judge Cahill sentenced him to 60 days in jail.

Fred Banks of 54 Ann street, charged with public intoxication was given a suspended sentence, and Frank Albright, 28, of 66 Ann street, charged with failing to support his wife, had his hearing held open for three weeks.

STATE ELECTION CUSTOMS

There were really 48 elections on November 5. The Council of State Governments is authority for the word that the people of this country cast their ballots on that date under 48 different systems. Every state has its own form of ballot and election rules.

Three states don't even have the Australian secret ballot, but use "party papers" put out by each party for itself. Three states have separate sets of ballots for national, state and county candidates. In 25 states everything is on one huge sheet of paper, from President down to small, local tax levies.

One state takes care of its local issues in September and has nothing but presidential electors to trouble its collective head with on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. One state votes on national issues in even years and state matters in odd years, so the November balloting is always comparatively simple.

The interesting thing about the situation is the reminder it carries that the United States is a federation of independent commonwealths. We know it, but we forget it most of the time. In many matters these 48 states seek uniform action for mutual benefit, but they have attained it in very limited degree. And they can go on being independent and different in a good many ways as long as they wish.

FASTEST PLANE

As the feverish quest for aerial speed continues, the airplane industry seems to have reached a goal long sought. It is an epochal achievement. Jack Knight, a veteran American air official, says an airplane has been created that will outrun a bullet. This is the Bell Aircobra, so named for its striking power, which in a recent test flight attained a speed of 520 miles an hour. It will dive much faster than that.

Hostile bullets fired at such a plane from the rear when it was in full flight couldn't do much damage, if any. Theoretically there would be a point at which a flyer could reach out his hand, catch the bullets and put them in his pocket, although it might be difficult in practice.

On the other hand, bullets or shells fired at the swift plane from in front might have twice as much force or penetrating power as if they were fired at a stationary target. But such considerations probably don't bother the flyers much.

ARMOR

A recent experience of Queen Elizabeth in London is interesting and suggestive. The Queen happened to be inspecting an armored car when she remembered an engagement with the King and asked to be taken to meet him in the car instead of a bus. She thought it would give him a surprise, and it did.

It must occur to many Americans, as they read of this incident, that it seems symbolic. Not only British royalty, but Londoners generally, may soon be doing their riding in armored cars. And as the practice grows it may even spread to America. Motor cars are built of steel, anyway, and it's mostly a matter of strengthening the thin steel and providing smaller windows with non-shattering glass.

Thus we shall be doing in our rather clumsy and experimental way what turtles and big lizards did hundreds of millions of years ago.

CAPTURED LINENS

An American, recently returned from German-occupied France, relates the usual information about the early dwindling of food supplies and soap because the conquerors take these for themselves and their people back home. He adds an item of which little has been heard heretofore, but which is probably as true of Belgium and Holland as of France.

"Nazis have visited each French house (he was speaking particularly of Paris) to take over all available linens. Each citizen is allowed to keep merely two sheets and two bed coverings."

The linens were sent to Germany to fill a lack there. Whatever their use, disappearance of these items from household shelves normally well stocked must be a shocking, even though a minor, proof to the French of their helplessness and servitude.

HUSKY HUSKERS

They raise speedy cornhuskers along with their tall corn in Iowa. The new national champion in this practical sport is an Iowan who husked a net load of 46.71 bushels in the given time. He broke the record, made by another Iowan, which had stood for five years, and he broke it by no mean margin. The record established in 1935 was 41.52 bushels.

Twenty-one other state champions competed in this annual autumn classic. Crowds turned out to watch. It was a pleasant social occasion as well as a sporting event and a demonstration of the survival of great personal skill in a machine age.

"Hitler is like a man on a bicycle," says a New York Times man. "He has to keep moving or he falls over." He looks to us like a man on a flying trapeze.

That some of our neighbor republics are ruled by native dictators doesn't mean they want any foreign dictators to take over.

War correspondents have to step lively nowadays—new wars are always breaking out on them before breakfast.

Another thing that's "indispensable" is for Americans to be able to live together after election.

The Nazi Caesar who can't conquer England now expects to be Alexander conquering Asia.

Well, now, the nation can get some sleep again.

Mussolini seems to think he has to conquer Greece because the other Caesars did.

It isn't really true that all's fair in love and war and politics.

 CORRECTING FACE DEFORMITIES

One of the good things that resulted from the last war was the great opportunity surgeons had in correcting face deformities due to shrapnel and other wounds. While the improvement in their appearance meant much to those soldiers and their families, the experience obtained by surgeons has meant even more to growing children, boys and girls, and adults afflicted with deformities of the face.

One of the commonest deformities is a long nose with an extra length of "hook" on the end of it. An illustration showing "before and after" of a young girl appeared in the Journal of the American Medical Association some months ago. The "before" operation picture showed a young woman with marked hump nose with overhanging hook or tip. She did not get along well with other girls because of her appearance. The "after" picture showed a straight nose and no hook or tip. "The operation did a great deal to overcome her emotional difficulties."

Drs. Claire L. Strath and E. H. DeKleine, Detroit, whom I have just quoted believe that in the presence of deformity the most important single factor in avoiding undesirable personality changes (inferiority complex particularly), is the most complete surgical restoration possible at the earliest date feasible. Childhood deformities must be corrected before the child reaches school age and a few are best corrected within the first week of life. While the plastic surgeon may have most to do in correcting facial deformities, the help of other specialists is sometimes necessary, namely dentists, eye, and also ear specialists.

There are also deformities elsewhere in the body such as curvature of the spine, bow legs, knock knees, wry neck and others, any of which can spoil school, business or social life. Most of these can be corrected completely or in part.

It is gratifying to know that parents and the family physician are now aware of what it means to children and others to have to face the handicaps of a deformity. It is fortunate also that the family physician is now able to refer patients to experienced plastic surgeons.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Back in 1913 life moved at a more leisurely pace in Kingston than it did during the hectic days of the World War in 1917-18, and the present days of the first peacetime draft in the history of the country, but even in those days residents of the city were interested in civic affairs, and efforts were being made to locate new industries here.

The Wemlinger Steel Piling Company of New York had taken an option on some land along the Rondout creek in December of 1913, and planned to locate here, and the "incubator plant" of which I have written previously, had been completed.

Taxes were much lower in 1913 than they are today. On Monday evening, December 15, 1913, the city fathers met and adopted the city budget prepared by Mayor Roscoe Irwin. The budget was adopted. It fixed the tax rate for 1914 at $25.90 per thousand valuation.

It should be remembered that this tax rate included not only the general tax, but the school tax as well, as it was not until several years later that mounting taxes made it necessary to divide the city taxes into two installments, the general tax being payable early in the year and the school tax during the summer.

That citizens were interested in municipal affairs in 1913 is shown by the fact that there was a Municipal League in the city headed by Edgar N. Palen as president and former Mayor Morris Block as vice president. The secretary was Attorney Arthur C. Connelly. The purpose of the Municipal League was to secure the greatest possible economy and efficiency in city government, and to induce the citizens of the city to take a more active interest in municipal affairs.

On Sunday, December 7, of that year, the new Salvation Army Hall on North Front street, which had been made possible through the financial contributions of citizens, was formally dedicated. The building was erected at a cost of $4,200, and of that amount citizens of the city had subscribed $3,600.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, pastor of the First Dutch Church, presided at the dedication services and the building was formerly

Boston, England, Presents Gift to Boston, U. S. A.

The Guildhall railing in the Boston public library was sent to the library at the suggestion of Mr. George W. Coleman of Boston.

The ancient oaken balustrade once stood in the Palace of Justice, or courtroom, of the Guildhall in the city of Boston, England. Some of the Pilgrim Fathers appeared as prisoners before this rail in 1607; among them was Elder William Brewster. Mr. Coleman expressed the wish that the railing might be sent to Boston during the Pilgrim centenary. No action was taken in the matter until after the armistice was signed in November, 1918. The formal presentation was made on May 29, 1919, in behalf of the city of Boston, England, by the acting British consul, Alfred J. Ogston, and his honor, Mayor Andrew J. Peters, accepted the gift in behalf of the city of Boston, Mass. The library board of trustees was represented by its president, the late William F. Kenney; the late Rev. Arthur T. Connolly, the Rev. Alexander Mann and by the late librarian, Charles F. D. Beiden.

Mr. Ogston in his address described the railing "as a token of the kindly and cordial feeling entertained by the city of Boston in England for the city of Boston in New England, and emblematic of the feeling of love and esteem which exists between the two nations."

Not long ago, the President himself read to the assembled correspondents a dispatch from the Rome correspondent of the New York Times who said opinion and sentiment there favored Mr. Roosevelt's defeat. While the correspondent was expelled from Italy for his dispatch, the fact remains

Parachute Dives for Fish And Brings 'Em Up Alive

HAMILTON, BERMUDA.—A method of fishing that may revolutionize the industry and be of considerable aid to scientists has been developed by Dr. John Wheeler, director of the Bermuda Biological Institute.

He uses a new kind of net on a parachute principle operated entirely free from all connections with surface craft. It descends to depths of at least a mile and then automatically rises with fish in a bucket arranged above the parachute net. Attached to the bucket and projecting into the net is a funnel opening into a pipe through which the fish pass from the net. Attached to the bottom of the parachute net is a piece of rock salt which dissolves and allows the parachute to rise to the surface on a gasoline-filled buoy.

Use of state automotive tax funds to purposes other than highway financing is branded as "morally wrong" and an unsound policy of public finance by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland.

Coal mining, 64 strikes and 7,465, 000 days lost; automotive, 44 strikes and 2,535,000 days lost; clothing, 447 strikes and 715,000 days lost; building, 320 strikes and 633,000 days lost; textiles, 92 strikes and 606,000 days lost; water transport, 100 strikes and 506,000 days lost; WPA relief, 33 strikes and 400,000 days lost; food industries, 143 strikes and 385,000 days lost; chemical industries, 39 strikes and 329,000 days lost; retail trade, 206 strikes and 325,000 days lost.

These figures, according to B. C. Forbes, show that nearly 50 per cent more time was lost through labor disputes in 1939 than in 1938. His figures for the various industries are as follows:

Amazing Impertinence of Foreign Press Regarding U. S. Election is Unusual Campaign Feature

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 6.—There is one aspect of the campaign which can better be discussed after the election than before and that's the amazing impertinence of the press of foreign countries in butting into the American election.

As these lines are written, this correspondent does not know the outcome of the election. At this moment the ballots are still being counted so that nothing said here could possibly affect the voting or be construed as in any way motivated by the way the election turned out.

But it is apparent that because of the excitement of the election campaign or the American disinclination to become involved in a controversy with the foreign press during the contest itself, the American attitude toward the editorial expressions of the foreign press was not vocal.

It would be interesting, indeed, to know who inspired the brief cablegrams at first and later the long dispatches in which the press of foreign countries brazenly expressed their preferences as between Roosevelt and Willkie or indicated in one way or another their feelings in such a way as to leave no doubt of their preferences.

The press of Germany and Italy offended and so did the press of Great Britain and some of the newspapers in Argentina and other Latin-American countries.

Knowing that in the case of European newspapers, there is a close relationship between the government and the press.

Amounting in many instances to absolute control, American observers are forced to conclude that foreign governments permitted themselves to become involved in attempts to influence American public opinion.

The British press probably was most offensive. The editorials there said clearly that there was no difference in foreign policy between the two candidates, but asked Americans to realize that the British wanted Mr. Roosevelt reelected. The Latin-American press editorialized on how important it was to the good neighbor policy for President Roosevelt to be continued in power. Such dispatches, coming as they did at a time when perhaps the major issue was Mr. Roosevelt's supposed intimacy with foreign affairs as a justification for a third term. The foreign press may be said to have played an indirect part in the American campaign.

Not long ago, the President himself read to the assembled correspondents a dispatch from the Rome correspondent of the New York Times who said opinion and sentiment there favored Mr. Roosevelt's defeat. While the correspondent was expelled from Italy for his dispatch, the fact remains that it passed the censorship in the original instance. Likewise, later on editorials in the Nazi and Italian press left no doubt that, while disclaiming any preference, there was a distinct antipathy toward Mr. Roosevelt.

This sort of thing from the Axis countries undoubtedly had exactly the opposite effect from that which the Nazi and Italian editorial writers intended, for it probably converted many voters who accepted the New Deal cry that the Axis wanted Roosevelt beaten. But the incident should illustrate to all foreign governments the absurdity of trying to influence American opinion from external sources.

There is not much proof, but some suspicion that agents of foreign governments may have played a part in stimulating votes here or there inside the United States among organizations friendly or unfriendly to one or the other of the presidential candidates. But this sort of thing can easily be detected and usually checks itself out through opposing sides.

In this campaign, however, the constant flow of editorials which American correspondents abroad cabled to the United States commenting on the campaign as it progressed constitutes an unwarranted interference in America's internal affairs and should be emphatically repudiated. If it is intended to involve America in foreign entanglements, no surer way to create such a result can be imagined than for foreign governments to inspire their press to mix into America's domestic affairs.

There is no way, of course, for Americans to escape their views concerning the bad taste involved, but there certainly will be considerable damage done to the cause of international cooperation if forbearance isn't exercised by foreign governments. The isolationist sentiment in the United States is not relished by Great Britain, for instance, so commented the British newspapers on what candidate they would like to see elected can only fan the flames of anti-British sentiment. Conversely, the editorials from the Nazi and Italian sources only serve to intensify the pro-ally sentiment of those in America who feel the dictator countries are trying to influence us to cut down our material aid to the democracies.

Nobody abroad will gain by meddling in America's internal politics. This is strictly an American affair, and while Americans reserve the right to carry on a bitter contest, they do not admit the right for any foreign governments or newspapers to assist or oppose any faction in the United States during a political campaign. ## Labor Disputes Last Year Caused Heavy Day Losses

If all the man days lost through strikes in 1939 were put end to end, it would have to go back to before this world was discovered, according to statistics of the United States department of labor's strikes.

The statistics disclose that 13,937, 000 days were lost last year because of labor strikes in this country. Dividing this figure by 365, it discloses that 38,183 years were lost because of labor disputes.

These figures, according to B. C. Forbes, show that nearly 50 per cent more time was lost through labor disputes in 1939 than in 1938. His figures for the various industries are as follows:

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Richmond—Thieves who broke into a Main street supply store seemed interested most in the leather goods display.
Reported missing by the owner were: 25 gentlemen's wallets, among other articles.

No Christmas in November
Marshall, Mo.—At least nine voters believed in Santa Claus. But the nine votes for Santa Claus, a plumber-preacher running for state representative on the Prohibition ticket, put him far behind his Democratic and Republican opponents, each of whom had more than 5,000 votes in 32 out of 37 precincts.

Dropped?
Kansas City—Daus Gottleb tells this story about a friend:
Before starting on a trip he promised his fiancée he would inform her regularly of his welfare. So far the only telegram she received said:
"Having a wonderful time. Wish you were her."
The fiancée hopes it was a mistake in transmission.

Store Teeth
Belleville, Ill.—Among routine reports heard at a school board meeting was one that a fifth grade pupil, who has never had any teeth, had been fitted with dental plates and "unbelievable progress" made in mouth muscle development.

Motion Picture Mistakes
Motion picture makers commit many crimes in the name of dramatic license, says Richard Wallace, Hollywood director, but he justifies these crimes in the name of drama. According to the director, there are minor misdemeanors to which the fans don't object; others seem fairly serious, but in the long run are justified because of the effect achieved. Sometimes facts are twisted, anachronisms permitted, if by so doing, the ends of drama can be served. Wallace says that cardinal inexcusable errors are those which have to do with characterization, but that studios guard against the sounding of any note which makes a character implausible, emotions false and motives unsound.

Salt of the Earth
Common salt at one time was so valuable that Roman soldiers received it as pay in lieu of money. In some remote Arctic and tropic regions salt is still one of the scarcest commodities, but in civilized countries, salt today is taken for granted. In the American West, vast works recover salt from the waters of the Great Salt Lake and the Pacific ocean. Further east, notably in Michigan, New York, Kansas and Louisiana, salt is mined like coal in the depths of the earth. From a mine near Avery Island, Louisiana, annually comes more than a half million tons of virtually pure rock salt that is processed to varying degrees of fineness for a wide range of industrial uses, for stock-raisers and for household use.

Fascist Viewpoint
Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—Fascist political circles today described the indicated reelection of President Roosevelt as "reaffirmation of American policy, which was expected." "Since there was no surprising results, there is no occasion to comment," one high Fascist observer said. "American policy evidently will remain the same, and so will Italy's."

Too Many Restrictions So Art Teacher Resigns

The Fremont, Neb., school board is looking for a new art teacher and Miss Oletha Paul is looking for a new position, despite the board's offer to renew her contract at a higher salary.

"There is no chance for self-development and no chance for the teacher as an individual," Miss Paul explained in a letter she had published in a Fremont newspaper.

"A teacher faces severe criticism, regardless of qualifications and capabilities if she will not docilely fall into the mold unjustly set for her."

Miss Paul said she was accused of "boldness of speech" and "indifference to community affairs." Furthermore, she said, her reluctance to appear in public had provoked "town gossip."

"Teachers' parties bore me, principals' parties bore me, I don't drink, I don't smoke and I don't lead an immoral life," she said. "And I hate to play bridge."

Partly finished paintings and pieces of sculpture which cluttered her upstairs apartment indicated the trend of her interest.

Geological Mystery
Geology has absorbed the story of the giant, hairy mammoths which were found frozen in the eternal ice of Siberia. But even the most relentless scientist has been unable to explain, states Coronet magazine, how icy death came so swiftly to those great cumbersome beasts of the past. Not only were the carcasses perfectly preserved, even to the hair and eyeballs, but undecomposed food was found in the stomachs and adhering to the teeth. Nearly 25,000 years ago the mammoths apparently finished a meal, and were frozen so suddenly that the food clinging to their teeth remained almost fresh. How many thousands of the creatures are still locked deep in the ice, no man knows. What super-blizzard, what almost instantaneous change in temperature, caught these beasts in its white grip?

Orders Are Rescinded
Hongkong, Nov. 6 (AP)—Orders for compulsory departure of British women and children from Hongkong have been rescinded on instructions from London, an official announcement said today.

Hen With Gold in Gizzard
Sydney, Australia.—Two small pieces of gold, worth $2 were found in the gizzard of a hen which Mrs. C. F. Membrey, of Dubbo, New South Wales, was preparing for the table. The hen was one of a consignment sent to the market from a farm in the district.

WAKE UP YOUR OWN LAXATIVE FLUID

And Maybe You, Too, Will Feel Like "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Do you suffer from constipation or fatty indigestion below the belt? Do you suffer from sick headaches, biliousness and feel nervous? If so, you may need to buck up the flow of your natural laxative fluid with Carter's Little Liver Pills.

For when two plates of this natural laxative fluid flow through our bowels every day, the miseries of constipation, biliousness and fatty indigestion below the belt steel away and many of us feel like "happy days are here again."

Carter's Little Liver Pills have doubled the flow of this laxative juice in some people as proved by medical tests. They are simple pills made of two vegetable drugs. Don't bear with constipation, sick headaches, fatty indigestion below the belt and that bilious rundown feeling another day. Try Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions. See for yourself that they help many people to feel like "happy days are here again." Ask your druggist for Carter's Little Liver Pills now so you won't forget it. 10¢ and 25¢.

THE FARLEYS WAIT IN LINE TO VOTE

While lines of voters waiting to enter booths attested the heavy balloting in most sections of the country, James A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, and Mrs. Farley, took their turn in New York city as they stood in line to ballot for president.

Japanese Have Idea

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, greeted news of President Roosevelt's apparent re-election today with the assertion that the President should make "reorientation of the United States Far Eastern policy" his first consideration. Many Japanese previously had expressed the view re-election of Roosevelt meant a strengthening of United States policy in the Orient. The present attitude of the United States is "unfeasible and too far-fetched," Suma asserted.

Protest Is Ordered

Bern, Switzerland, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Swiss government today directed its minister to London to protest energetically against alleged violations of Swiss territory by British bombers during the night. The Swiss high command earlier this morning said heavy anti-aircraft fire had "dispersed one squadron" of the many warplanes that flew over Switzerland during the night. A blackout has been ordered.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mohler Hanson

Chapter 36
The Lilac Tree

LYNN stared at him. "The Prince still rules?"

He bowed. "Long live the Prince."

"Then I have stepped into a trap," she said slowly to Temu.

"There is no trap."

"You let yourself be bound and held prisoner to deceive me there in the gorge?"

"Not to deceive you, Lynn. His voice was troubled. "How can I explain? It seemed important to you to enter Delun of your own free will. I wished to give you that—privilege."

She stood there looking at him helplessly, awed and overcome before such colossal singleness of purpose, and wondering if, perhaps, she had been wrong in rejecting this thing that obsessed him so completely. His voice dropped to an inexpressibly tender tone.

"I wished to show, in the only way permissible, my love for you."

At his words, a strange thing happened to Lynn. A light seemed to shine from within her, illuminating both her mind and her surroundings as if she had come into a new and unexplored world of human experience. She lifted her face in enchantment, feeling that sense of utter abandon which is liberation. At that moment, it was as if a goddess incarnate had lived before her, she knew what it was to be a goddess incarnate.

"You win, Temu. I surrender. I don't understand—but this thing is too much for me. Your wish is my wish, your loyalty, my loyalty. Lead me to your Prince."

He had drawn closer to her, his eyes luminous. She wished he would take her hands and hold them tight. He did so, his own hands trembling. She felt the restraint he clamped down on himself to keep from taking her into his arms. It was a moment before he could speak and then he said: "Lynn dear, this thing is bigger than either of us." He lifted her hands and kissed the palms, first one and then the other. She stared at them perplexedly.

"Temu! Such an odd pain running through my hands!" She paused. "And through my heart! What does it mean?"

"You are ready to meet the Prince?"

"I am ready," she agreed. He hesitated.

"There is something else to tell you, Lynn. You have gone through part of the Chinese wedding ceremony. You have presented the apple of peace. You have passed the orchid door. But unless you join in the cup ceremony the marriage will not be completed. The choice is yours. The Prince is waiting. Come with me."

Final Surprise

HE LAUGHED gently. "Tara Lynn, I am the Prince, Roger Cornwall, the missionary's son. You might have known I could derment put her hands to the sides of his face.

"Temu, if you knew this thing was true of you and me, why didn't you tell me so in the first place?"

"You were not ready to be told," he said ruefully. "I had fancied that you would be prepared; that the instant our eyes met, you would realize that indeed, you belong to me and I to you. You would fall into my arms. But you came to my house in Pai Shu as a stranger. You distrusted me and doubted my intentions. Your brother had deceived you and put me in a difficult position. I could not tell you anything. I could only bring you here and let you see for yourself."

Her hands had dropped to his shoulders. She drew back in mock seriousness.

"I had forgotten, my lord. I have a report to make to the Prince of Shani Lun."

He drew himself up in mock solemnity. "We are listening."

"It concerns the soldier, Temu Darin."

The Prince nodded gravely. "My representative—a loyal subject."

"So I had thought," she paused, "but now I see that he made love to me on the journey across the desert by every look, every gesture, every indirect word he uttered."

The Prince frowned ferociously. "The scoundrel! We shall behead him at once!"

They broke out laughing and he drew her into his arms again. "You shall have ten thousand husbands," he declared. "I promise to be a new man every day of our lives." He lifted her chin and kissed her slowly. The sound of distant cheering came to their ears. They listened and smiled at each other.

"The people are rejoicing in this hour of ours," he said. "We shall be undisturbed until morning when the Princess Mother will come and inquire if you are content with me. It is the custom in China where a bride, having known no previous wooing, is placed in the arms of a stranger." He took her hand in his and drew a ring from the big cuff on his sleeve. It was the pearl cluster in the dragon setting.

"To Lynn with love," he said, placing the ring on her finger. It had been cut to fit.

Her eyes met his, smiling tenderly. "My motto has been fulfilled," she said. "Three joyous reasons—yours, me, the ring."

They turned once more to the tree, giving themselves to the spell of its beauty and promise, the past and future made present.

Temu pressed a bell and an attendant appeared carrying the golden chalice of the wedding ceremony. Twin cups tied together by a red and yellow ribbon, filled with the rice wine of good fortune and happiness. Without untying the ribbon or spilling the contents, they exchanged cups according to the ancient ritual and drank to each other the pledge of love, having come to the end of the desert road to Shani Lun.

The End.

Advice

Your fortune never will be found if you sit down and shirk. For opportunity goes around disguised as plain hard work.

Little Boy (reading item from London)—What does it mean by "seasoned troops," dad?

Dad—Mustered by the officer and peppered by the enemy.

If you worry about not being appreciated and really deserve appreciation, you probably have not waited long enough or are appreciated now and do not know it.

Figure out the winner: Jerry—How'd you get along with your wife in that fight the other night?

Gerald—Oh, she came crawling to me on her knees.

Jerry—Yes? Well, what did she say?

Gerald—Come out from under that bed, you coward!

Wars are like politics in that there is no lack of people who are quick to side with the winners.

WPA Executive—If we don't figure out a way to spend that one hundred and twenty million dollars we lose our jobs.

Secretary—How about a bridge over the Mississippi river, lengthwise?

The efficiency of a clock-watcher is amazing. One has never been known to quit work a minute late or to arrive on the job a minute early.

Better not try this: Mistress—Did you post my letter, Mary?

Maid—Yes, mum. Indeed I did.

Mistress—But why have you brought back the pennies I gave you with which to buy the stamps?

Maid—I didn't have to use a stamp, mum. I slipped the letter in the mail box when nobody was looking, mum.

If we used dictionaries more we would define words more nearly alike and hence there would be fewer misunderstandings.

Chief—But how did the police spot you in your woman's disguise?

Thief—I passed a milliner's window without looking in at the display.

There are three kinds of anecdotes: Those which should be repeated. Those which should not be repeated. Those that do not matter.

This scheme didn't work: Mrs. Newlywed—Henry, I thought you told me that your bank loaned money on notes.

Mr. Newlywed—So it does, dear. Why?

Mrs. Newlywed—Well, it doesn't! I sent the maid down there with a note telling them I wanted to borrow $100 and they wouldn't give it to her.

We can improve the city by improving the citizens, and the first citizen with which to start are ourselves.

Little Wifey—Goodie! Home early, aren't you?

Little Hubby—Yep. Glad to see me.

Little Wifey—Of course. But did you stop at the drug store and get that box of rouge I asked you to get?

Little Hubby—No, dearest; I couldn't. You see, I happened to remember that I promised never to do anything to bring a blush to your cheek.

Do you suppose there ever was a man whose wife thought as much of him ten years after marriage as she did ten days before?

Miss Betty Holt spent the weekend in Monroe.

A number from this place spent Wednesday in Kingston.

The Five Senses

In a large European hospital there hangs on the wall of the operating room of a famous surgeon a placard with five words. "Sight" heads the list in very large letters. Second is "hearing" in small letters. Third is "touch," fourth is "smell" and finally is "taste" in letters so fine that they scarcely can be distinguished across the room.

"Eight-five per cent of all our knowledge, and most of our culture and enjoyment of life, come to us through our eyes," comments the Better Vision Institute. "To the average person sight is more important to living than are all the other four senses combined. Despite the importance of vision to better living, millions of persons overwork and neglect their eyes. It indeed would be well if every school room had on the wall a placard similar to that of the famous surgeon. In that way the importance of caring for and protecting one's eyes would be impressed upon everyone at an early age."

'I'm Proud of Him'

MRS. WENDELL WILLKIE

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—The slim, youthful-looking wife of Wendell L. Willkie was at his side, still smiling, even as her husband was losing his fight for the presidency.

A friend put an arm around her and said, "Don't worry, honey."

She quickly replied, "I'm not worrying."

On their plans for the future:

"We haven't made plans for anything," she said, "except to take a vacation. That was to happen win, lose or draw."

In an interview late in the evening, she indicated that much as she wanted her husband to win, her personal preference for herself was a quiet life.

"I've never had a public life until this campaign," she said. "I do like my own privacy. I like to sit behind the post, or behind a big fat lady—as I did yesterday at the movies."

Looking fresh after thousands of miles of travel with the candidate, she confessed, however, she was tired.

She stayed in their hotel suite when her husband, with the vote mounting against him, went to the hotel ballroom about midnight to thank campaign workers and say, "Don't be afraid and never quit."

She heard his voice on the radio, and stopped greeting friends to listen.

"We—want—Willkie! —We—want—Willkie!" came the chant from the crowd in the ballroom.

Edith Willkie turned to her friends and said, "I'm proud of him. I'm proud of the fight he made."

Combined Vote

In tabulating the number of votes cast for the Democratic candidates in the city is included the vote cast for them by the American Labor party.

15,685 Votes Cast

The returns from the 20 election districts in Kingston show that there was a total of 15,685 votes polled for president, and that 441 did not vote, although they had registered.

The city's registration was 16,126.

Results Soon Known

It was shortly after 11 o'clock last night that it became evident in Kingston that Roosevelt was re-elected, and those who were on the streets returned to their homes to hear the final election returns over the radio.

Owing to the fact that the polls did not close until 9 o'clock it was later than usual before the results as to the county ticket were known as well as the vote cast in Kingston.

Results Expected

Long before the votes were counted it was a foregone conclusion that the Republican party would elect its county ticket and give majorities to the national and state ticket. The only question that interested local politicians would be the amount of the majorities.

In Kingston the Democrats succeeded in cutting down the expected Republican majorities, but this was due to the unexpected heavy vote cast for President Roosevelt in the city.

Snowed Trend

The straw votes taken in the high school, the M. J. Michael School and School No. 2, which showed Roosevelt majorities was an indication of the heavy vote that Roosevelt would receive in

Franklin D. Roosevelt: The First Third-Termer in History

ROOSEVELT'S CAREER started at 28 in New York state senate. At 31, he took post of Assistant Secretary of Navy, which he held during World War. He's shown, left, as he looked in those days. In 1920, he ran for vice-president.

INTO PRESIDENCY, after two terms as New York's governor. F. D. R. took over from Hoover in depression times. Started public works, farm relief, and inaugurated new system of press conferences and "fireside chats."

SECOND TERM found F. D. R. still the adroit chief of state. He visited South American "good neighbors," panned dictators, found time to fish and play host in world's biggest social event entertaining Britain's monarchs.

THIRD TERM brings the President to another crossroads after depression and world crisis. Right, he's shown signing the conscription bill. With bi-partisan cabinet, he stresses national unity, strong defenses.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature, Service Writer)

Washington—President Roosevelt guessed right in 1938 and won a third term in 1940. The Republicans guessed wrong in January, 1938, and lost in 1940. That's the conclusion of many impartial observers. They base it on the general theory that the threat of war led voters generally to support experienced President Roosevelt despite the fact that he ran in violation of the third-term tradition.

The observers thumb back through 40,000 pages and almost three years of Congressional Record for their evidence.

The President guessed, on January 3, 1938 (page 6, Volume 83, part one, Congressional Record, 75th Congress) that world troubles would be uppermost in the minds of American voters in November, 1940, and NOT domestic difficulties.

Wallace vs. McNary

Ten days later, Bertrand Snell, speaking for the Republican party (page 184, Volume 83, Congressional Record appendix, 75th Congress), guessed exactly opposite.

There were, of course, other strong undercurrents that helped to speed victory for the Democrats. Vice-presidential candidates Henry Wallace and Charles McNary sort of cancelled each other out in the critical western farm states, prevented a Republican slide there.

New Deal publications may have played a part. For instance, the Federal Works Agency's "Millions for Defense" pictured New Deal relief spending for defense in the depression years, well ahead of the national alarm of 1939. "Technology on the Farm," by Henry Wallace's department of agriculture, outlined a 10-year program further accenting help for the poorer farmers of the nation. And a report by the Securities and Exchange Commission added up the hundreds of millions of dollars of family holdings by the Fords, duPonts, Rockefellers, Mellons, etc.

Then there was the relief vote, generally regarded as a reservoir of strength for the party in power, and votes from several big city political machines, like the Kelly-Nash setup in Chicago, and from the solid south.

But the big element still remains the threat of war.

Started in '37

The story of how the Democrats won begins with Christmas week in 1937. Another economic setback had the country by the throat. Steel production had dropped 70 per cent in a few months. Automobile sales were bogging. Business and government were alarmed.

Suddenly two New Deal minions, Utility-fighting Bob Jackson and general handy-man name-caller Harold Ickes, launched the administration's bitterest attack on big business. Jackson accused the nation's tycoons of a sitdown strike against the New Deal. Ickes attacked the nation's "sixty-families."

"A-ha," said the experts, "the President's getting ready for another attack on business. Ickes and Jackson paved the way. The boss will follow up with the main onslaught in his speech to Congress on the state of the nation."

But the President surprised everybody, perhaps even Ickes and Jackson. He made no attack on big business on January 3. Instead, he opened up with a carefully-worded attack on aggressor nations. He supported the other democracies. He advocated "adequately strong self defense."

And finally he appealed to business, labor, and agriculture "to demonstrate national unity in a world of high tension and disorder."

He saw War Clouds First
The Republicans waited 10 days, then sent Snell to the radio for the official reply. Through 3,500 words, almost up to the last paragraph of his speech, Snell concentrated on the domestic scene—the "depression," the "11,000,000 unemployed," the "$17,000,000,000 worth of Roosevelt public debt, the "hamstringing" reform laws.

Snell dismissed the clouds of war with one oddly-worded sentence: "Above all, we oppose the continual preaching of war against and hate among our own people."

From then on out, the New Deal marked time on domestic issues, offered fewer and fewer reforms, more and more big defense plans. Republicans multiplied their attacks on spending, extravagance, and in a final splurge, took a business man to head their party ticket in 1940—the one big business man who had throughout the New Deal championed business against "big government."

As war spread, the Republicans supported defense and conscription, but charged the President with a slow administration of defense, and insisted he was leading the country toward war. Willkie also talked up to the dictators as the campaign swung into its climax.

But all this came late. The margin of Roosevelt victory was established in 1938 because he saw the war clouds first.

Kerhonkson Union School Activities

Many Events Scheduled for This Month

Wednesday, November 6 was designated for clinics for the prevention of smallpox and diphtheria. Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, school physician, has given his approval of the clinic. Dr. Joseph Sandler, of Ellenville, will do the inoculating and vaccinating.

Medical science has made available to everyone protection from smallpox. In the cities, vaccination is compulsory and in the rural areas it is highly recommended.

Diphtheria is highly dangerous because the germ which causes the disease sets forth into the patient's body an exceedingly strong poison. This poison seriously affects the heart and the nervous system, sometimes causing death, and often leaving those who recover with paralysis of the throat, or with defective heart action.

The clinic is not limited to school children, but may include those of pre-school age. Parents who wish to take advantage of this opportunity, should bring their children to the high school at 10 o'clock.

In the recent medical examination of students conducted by Doctors Feldshuh and Holloway, it was found that defective teeth were highly prevalent. Other health defects include tonsils, posture, and heart condition. Parents of children who need attention, will be notified shortly.

Quarterly Examinations

Quarterly examinations will be concluded Tuesday, November 12. As soon as possible thereafter, the school will issue report cards to parents. The form of the report card will be similar to that used last year in the high school grades, 7-12. Each pupil will be given a satisfactory passing mark in each subject. This satisfactory mark will vary according to the individual pupil. If he achieves this mark, his work will be considered passing. In addition, the card will contain various social attitudes ratings indicating the pupil's ability to assume responsibility, to get his work done, to get along with others, etc. These latter ratings will be used as a basis for participation in school sports and activities. Parents are invited to come to the school for a consultation at any time during the school day. If this is inconvenient, arrangements may be made for an interview at the regular Parent-Teacher Association meeting.

Morning Assembly

Every morning, the first 15 minutes is given over to an assembly program of songs. Last Monday, the student body were entertained for part of the time with excerpts from Gilbert and Sullivan operettas by the boys' glee club. Mr. Fay Axtell, director of music, sang the solo parts. Monday morning also marked the beginning of Courtesy Week in the Kerhonkson High School. This is being sponsored by the "Flying Goose," school newspaper. Herbert Popple, editor-in-chief, made a brief speech on the subject.

Activities

One of the most popular activities in the school is the program carried on by the Minute Girls under the direction of Muriel Barry. The officers for this organization are Charlotte Turner, president; Eula Sahler, vice-president; Natalie Gallagher, secretary-treasurer. The girls are working on various projects which include making of blouses by machine, embroidery, knitting sweaters and crocheting.

The library staff this year is performing a fine service to the student body. Not only do they check out books and magazines, but they also keep these books in repair. Many of them work on bulletin board and other vital displays. This type of activity offers boys as well as girls the opportunity to contribute something of real value to the school. The officers are: president, Rita Johnson; vice-president, Herman Dunn; secretary-treasurer, Margaret Martin.

P. T. A. Meeting

Mrs. Millard Davis, president of the P. T. A., has announced that the program for November 6 will include a forum discussion of the question, "After the Dam Is Completed—What Then?" In addition there will be presented a play by the fifth and sixth grades under the direction of Miss Margaret Schoonmaker. The title of the play is "Candlemaking Day in the Colonies." Those participating are: Kay Proper, Regina McAuliffe, Donald Damboise, Roland Van De-mark, Edna Davis, Richard Hockstedler, Virginia Bushey, Bessie Lowe, John Hockstedler, Ralph Scott. The Rondout Valley Men's Glee Club will sing two numbers according to Theodore Goldman business manager.

Assemblies

Plans for future assemblies include a series of talks on vocational opportunities sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association. The next of these speakers will be Colonel Girard McEntee, retired of the United States Army, who will discuss the subject, "Jobs Pertaining to Army and Navy." Mr. McEntee is scheduled to appear in assembly Friday, November 16.

On December 6, the commercial department will sponsor a speed typewriting demonstration by one of the leading typewriting companies, according to Muriel Barry, head of the department.

One of the finest talks ever to be delivered in the high school auditorium was presented by Corporal W. E. Cadwell of the New York State Police. Corporal Cadwell discussed the subject, "Highway Safety." His explanations and clear-cut descriptions appealed especially to the student body who applauded vigorously when he had concluded.

Most Trucks Small

By far the greatest portion of the trucks registered in the United States in 1939 were small, privately-owned vehicles, and the largest single group of truck owners were farmers, an analysis made by the American Petroleum Industries Committee reveals. The committee found that one out of every four trucks registered last year was a farm vehicle, that 88 per cent of all trucks were privately owned, and 92 per cent had a capacity of two tons or less.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie? DEATH DROPS IN ON A HOUSEPARTY

When Two Unasked Guests Come To Sally's Party, Murder Steals In Behind Them

Chapter One
The Rain Threatens
THE quiet was a little disconcerting as I drove around to the garage back of Wisteria Hall. Of course, its secluded atmosphere and its inaccessibility are among the chief charms of the old place, but I had expected some signs of activity. Where was everybody? Where, indeed, was the station wagon in which the two servants and Aunt Maggie had driven out yesterday to open the house for week-end guests?

"Kirk," I called, "Yoo-hoo-oo!" Did I imagine it, or did he really hesitate for a moment before breaking into a run?
Dropping my box, I also began to run; but he had disappeared around the turn and was out of the gate before I had covered half the distance. When I myself reached the turn, I heard the sound of a motor starting up. This was even more strange. I had seen no car outside the gate as I drove in, though one might easily have been concealed behind the shrubbery.

New Members Entertained

New and prospective members of the Junior Group of Wiltyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were entertained at supper on Monday at the chapter house. Following supper, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, chapter regent, addressed the group on the work of the D. A. R. and Mrs. Adam Porter explained the checking of one's genealogy. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards.

Among those attending as guests were Mrs. Edward Hughes, Mrs. Marvin Craft, Mrs. Carl V. Sutter, Mrs. Gardiner Burns, Mrs. W. R. Ryder, Miss Evelyn DuBois, Miss Beatrice Powley, Mrs. Paul Hinkley, Miss Hilda Winne, Miss Grace Cator, Miss Dorothy Brooks, Mrs. Alfred Reylea, Miss Isabel Herdman, Miss Charlotte Osterhout, Mrs. Frederick Lefheit, Mrs. Hubert Brink, and Mrs. Joseph R. Zeeh.

Lowell Club Studies Canaan

Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly presented the paper at the meeting of the Lowell Club Tuesday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Edwards on Albany avenue. Her subject was "The Conquest and Settlement of Canaan." Roll call, in charge of Miss Mary Hale, was the origin, name and location of the tribes of Israel. A social hour followed the meeting.

Club Announcements

Y. M. Auxiliary

The October meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Women's Auxiliary will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the "Y." Mrs. Robert Sisson will lead the devotional services and there will be a musical program. The president, Mrs. George H. DuBois, urges a full attendance of the members as several important matters of business will be taken up, among them the final arrangements for the "Y" carnival which is to be held December 6 and 7 and will be open to the public.

H. D. H. Club

The H. D. H. Club will hold a card, social and mah jong party Tuesday evening, November 12, at the uptown community center at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served. Tickets may be obtained at the door. Part of the proceeds will be given to non-sectarian charity. For information and reservations, telephone 2056. Players are asked to bring cards and mah jong sets. Monday evening the club will hold a meeting at the home of Miss Muriel Navy of 105 Wurts street.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Nov. 6—Woodstock was in darkness for two hours on Sunday evening. The blackout was caused by the breaking of a high tension wire by wind about at the point where the line enters the village. The electricity was turned off from the plant in Saugerties and workmen restored the contact.

The Rev. and Mrs. Haws attended a ministerial meeting in Saugerties Monday.

About $14 was realized from the food sale at Marion Wilber's market Saturday. Proceeds were for the benefit of the Ladies' Society of the Methodist Church.

Membership roll call will be held in the Methodist Church Sunday, November 10. This is an annual event and it is hoped that as many as possible will be in attendance.

A surprise birthday party was given Mrs. Bertha Stoutenberg at her home in Glen Monty evening. There were nine of the children of the Stoutenberg family present with their husbands and wives and the party was an enjoyable one. Ben Stoutenberg of Brooklynn has been visiting Robert Stoutenberg here. He returned to his home Monday.

To Hold Sale

The Lomontville 4-H Clubs will hold a penny sale November 15 at the Lomontville schoolhouse. The proceeds will be used for the different activities of the club. Everyone is welcome.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personal Side of Social Change," etc.)

ILL-BRED QUESTIONS ABOUT HUSBAND'S SALARY BEST ANSWERED BY ANOTHER QUESTION.

Changing the Subject Is Emily Post's Suggestion. To Woman Who Has Impertinent Acquaintances.

People who ask ill-bred impertinent questions such as "How much money does your husband earn?" cause great distress to people who are well-bred, and therefore find it discouraging to cope with rudeness. To one whose acquaintances seem to be particularly inquisitive about her husband's income, I can at least say that just as in a court of law, one is never required to make an answer that can be considered "incriminating or degrading" according to etiquette, which is the social law, one is never required to answer a question that is "embarrassing or distressing."

One can, in such a situation, either change the subject and say, "Have you noticed the dahlias in Dr. Smith's garden?" or "Do you think it is going to rain this afternoon?" or any other question, and no matter what they say, keep changing the subject, and if they persist too long, you can end it by saying, "That is one thing I never ask John." This answers nothing, but hedging is the best you can do for people who are inquisitive. If an intimate friend forces you to the wall, you can in this case say frankly, "Please Mary, let's talk about something else—John can't bear to have me talk about his personal affairs."

Manners Are Not Made For Men Alone

Dear Mrs. Post: When a girl makes a misstep while dancing, is it wrong for her to say she's sorry to her partner? I've done this, and my sister thinks that it sounds out of place, unless from the man. In other words, if he does something wrong, she thinks he should apologize, but not the girl. I can't understand why, but she tells me if I go on saying "I'm sorry to the man they'll lose respect for me."

Answer: Saying you are sorry for some awkwardness on your part is in no sense likely to lose any respect for you, but if you keep on misstepping, you will certainly lose partners!

An Early Question About Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has had some Christmas cards engraved and I think these have been made up incorrectly. However, he says not. The greeting is a folded card, the Christmas message beginning Mr. and Mrs.—on the inside fold. On the outside is his monogram. I think this should be mine. Will you let us have your opinion.

Answer: The idea sounds rather overdone, but it may of course look very well on that particular card. In any case, a cipher combining your initials with his should have been chosen. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Be sure that your stationery and phraseology is correct, whenever you write a letter. Send for Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Letter Writing," containing ten cents. Address Emily Post, c/o (this newspaper), P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Masons to Rally In Poughkeepsie

Grand Master Reception to Be Given Friday

An outstanding event in Masonic history will be the reception to be given Friday evening to Henry C. Turner, grand master of Masons in New York state, in Poughkeepsie. The visit of the grand master is being sponsored jointly by the district deputies of Columbia-Dutchess, Greene-Ulster, and Orange-Rockland Masonic districts.

The festivities and ceremonies attending the visit of the grand master of Masons to the Hudson valley will begin with a testimonial dinner at the Nelson House at 6:30 o'clock. Following the dinner the assembly will adjourn to the Masonic Temple where the reception to the grand master will continue. At 8 o'clock at the Temple the program will consist of addresses, music and other interesting entertainment. It is expected that many Masons from Kingston and Ulster county will attend.

Tampering With Nature

The disturbing results of man's whimsical transplantation of rabbits (into New Zealand) have been matched in the case of many of his other similar experiments.

Annoyed by rats in the West Indian island of Jamaica, man imported the mongoose which, in an alien land, away from its natural surroundings and normal enemies, multiplied with huge fecundity. It fed on Jamaican birds, Jamaican fruits; it ate poultry and slaughtered small domestic animals.

At present in Jamaica a dead mongoose is worth a bounty. It is no more esteemed than is our own brown rat, injudiciously transported to American shores about 1775; or our alien gypsy moth which has prospered frighteningly because its normal parasites are not here; or the black-tailed wallaby which, introduced to Kawaii island, in Elton's words "ate out most of the vegetation, and starved out most of the other animals, and with the hordes of opossums came out at night in the fields, grazing like sheep, and in the summer went into the garden, stripping it of fruit and vegetables."

Fast Lockheeds in Service

Adelaide, Australia—Two Lockheed 11 passenger air liners now are being used on the Adelaide-Darwin service by New Guinea Airways. The Lockheeds, which have a cruising speed of 224 miles per hour, are 35 m.p.h. faster than the fastest commercial plane previously operating in Australia.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Eerie: This was told to me by a friend of years' standing whose veracity I have never had occasion to question and who has been inclined to scoff at all psychic phenomena. Recently, she visited a friend who for some time had been in a hospital quite ill. In the night she was awakened from a deep sleep by a vivid dream in which her body seemed to be suspended horizontally over her bed. Turning on the light, she noted that the time was 5:30 a. m. For a little while she lay contemplating her dream. Then her eyes became heavy and she turned off the light at 5:40. But though the light was out, the glare still remained in her eyes and after a while, she saw in the glare, her friend all in white, walking toward a white coffin. As the coffin was reached, the glare disappeared. When she arose, she telephoned the hospital. Her friend had died at 5:45 a. m.

Street Scene: A boy and a girl standing in front of an old tenement, earnestly poring over a document. . . . A street cleaner, with his little cart parked close by, holds his broom in midair as he too peers. . . . Then he goes back to work with a smile. . . . A policeman, swinging his club, gives a glance at youngsters playing in the street, grins at the young couple and walks away whistling softly. . . . Two old women, their wide skirts flapping, walk past jabbering in some foreign language. . . . A middle-aged man, pipe in his mouth, thrusts his shoeless feet on a window sill and starts to open a newspaper. . . . A woman, evidently his wife, says something to him and he leans out of the window and peers at the paper which so interests the boy and girl. . . . and that document is a marriage license.

Assistance: Up at Lakewood, Maine, which is outside Skowhegan, telephone subscribers can get only party lines. So when Harry Carey was playing at the Lakewood playhouse recently, he had to share his phone with three other patrons. The operator always listens in so that she will know when conversations are ended. Well, Hollywood called Carey with an offer of a part in another picture after he had finished "Shepherd of the Hills." Carey's answer was that he didn't want to give a definite reply until later. The man on the other end kept on urging and named the salary. Still Carey hesitated. At that point, the operator cut in.

"Mr. Carey," she said, "that looks like a swell offer. I think you should accept."

Laundry: One of the reasons why we will hate to leave 444 Central Park West, is the Monday morning roof show. Judging by evidence laid out before our eyes weekly, laundries don't get much business from wives and mothers who live in the tenements the tops of which are visible from our living-room window. Every Monday morning, the roofs are filled with garments of all sorts and sizes fresh from tubs.

Cards: Up in Mt. Vernon two young married couples have been playing "airplane pinocle" for some time. This differs from the standard game in that, instead of a dummy being dealt, the partner of the bidder hands over four cards. Husbands and wives have been playing against one another and the men have been taking the women to town. But the other evening, one of the wives laid down a double run of trumps, a matter of a mere 1,500 points. Then the next hand, the other wife laid down a double run of aces for 1,000 points. And the husbands have seen fit to discontinue the game for the present at least.

Theater note: Max Marcin, encountering an actor he hadn't seen since Hollywood days, asked about his family. . . . "By the way," recalled Marcin, "Your son is a surgeon now, isn't he?" . . . "That's right," returned the actor proudly. "He opens at Bellevue hospital Monday."

Musical Dept.: When a modern band leader starts his climb to the big time he usually spends many restless hours in attempts to cook up a sock tag line. . . . Young Cecil Golly didn't have any worry along that line at all. . . . You've guessed it: "Music by Golly." . . . My current favorite, "I'll Never Smile Again," as played by Ray Heatter-ton's men.

Little Interest in Vichy

Vichy, France, Nov. 6 (AP)—A French spokesman said today the Vichy government had little interest in the United States election since "it concerns only the American hemisphere, and we have no right to express an opinion." Diplomatic observers, however, said no election—even in France—had been followed with more interest by the French people.

TEN KILLED IN AIRLINER CRASH

Here is a closeup view from the ground of the wreckage of a United Airlines plane which crashed into a mountainside about three miles northeast of Centerville, Utah, killing its ten occupants. All indications were that the pilots had no forewarning of their danger. The passengers' safety belts apparently were not fastened. Bodies of the passengers and stewardess were piled in a jumble at the front of the cabin.

A Canary's Long Flight
Incredible as it may appear, there is ample proof that a tiny canary flew from San Diego to Los Angeles, a distance of over 125 miles. The story of the bird's long flight, originally chronicled in the Tribune-Sun, San Diego, of August 22, has been fully verified.

Lower Tax Rate Seen

Increased gasoline tax revenue and efficient highway planning may bring about reduction of the Michigan gasoline tax rate, according to Harold D. Bradshaw, director of the Gasoline Tax Division of the Michigan Department of State. He points out that in 1939 gasoline tax revenue in Michigan had increased by more than $2,000,000 over 1938, adding that an additional increase of $3,000,000 in revenue is expected for 1940.

Plane Flights To 'Strato' Seen

Possibilities Indicated by Tests Being Made in Aircraft Plant.

SEATTLE.—Research engineers at the Boeing Aircraft company, home of the stratosphere transport plane, have equipped themselves with a laboratory which enables airplane development work to reach not only the stratosphere but the stratosphere itself.

This development portends aircraft capable of flying above 30,000 feet with no change in atmospheric pressure inside the cabin.

Boeing stratosphere—in reality a sub-stratosphere plane—can fly comfortably at 20,000 feet on cross-continental routes. In the military field, high-altitude operations have been pushed above transport limits through use of oxygen equipment instead of supercharged cabins.

The stratosphere begins at approximately 36,000 feet, where the atmospheric pressure is less than one-fourth the pressure at sea level. Experiments now being conducted will be of far-reaching importance to both commercial and military aviation.

The sky's not the limit in the Boeing laboratory—it's just the beginning. For a steel "strato-chamber," complete with air locks, superchargers, vacuum pumps, control valves and refrigeration, recreates—on the ground—the conditions of super-charged flight up to altitudes of 40,000 feet and beyond.

Fly to Any Altitude.

In the test chamber, engineers can "fly" in a few minutes to any desired altitude, either with comfortable supercharged air conditions or with oxygen masks and no supercharging. The chamber contains both the rarefied, frigid outside air of the stratosphere and, in another compartment, the normal air of a supercharged airplane cabin.

Thus engineers can test devices, controls, pressure seals, windows, structural members and other phases of atmospheric control as though they were actually being tested at high altitudes.

Stratosphere now maintain 12,000-foot altitude conditions when the plane actually is 20,000 feet above sea level. The job confronting research engineers is to maintain the same altitude conditions at a much higher level.

The strato-chamber is a three-ton tank, 12 feet long and 5½ feet in diameter, with pressure-tight doors at each end. Several engineer-observers may occupy the sealed chamber at one time. Controls are located both on the inside and outside, and contact is maintained by means of observation windows and a telephone system.

The chief worry, of course, is to reproduce stratospheric conditions.

A motor-driven vacuum pump reduces the air pressure. Then dry ice refrigeration reduces the temperature to 30 or more degrees below zero. Finally, this air is piped into the "supercharged cabin" compartment and is warmed and supercharged to a comfortable condition by the same methods now in operation.

More Motors Ordered, Fewer Cavalry Horses

WASHINGTON.—The horse gave way to the motor vehicle to an added extent in the cavalry as the war department ordered increases in strength and motorization of its two cavalry divisions. One of these is just being formed.

Moving to model the American cavalry more closely on German lines, the army ordered increases of strength of each division to 600 officers and 9,500 men from 500 officers and 8,500 men. The number of motor vehicles to be increased from 350 to 800 per division and the number of horses decreased from 8,000 to 6,000.

The change is designed to give the cavalry, which is stationed on the Mexican border, greater maneuverability and fire power, it was explained.

Plowing, Reseeding Thin Pasture Perpetuates It

Thinning hair is pretty hard to stop, but thinning pastures can be rejuvenated, says C. H. Farnham of the University of Illinois college of agriculture soil experiment fields.

Since the seedbed largely determines the success of a pasture, Farnham recommends that the turf of old pastures be summer-plowed and reseeded down several times before plowing in August or early September. In some cases thorough disking will help if existing grasses and weeds won't compete too much with the new seedlings.

Because continued pasturing or cropping reduces the content of calcium, phosphorus and other plant food materials, most old pastures need limestone and fertilizer. Need of limestone, which can be determined by an acidity test, usually shows up first. Limestone should be applied several months ahead of legume seedlings so it will have time to sweeten the soil before seeding time. If the land is to be plowed, it is best to apply the limestone after plowing so it will sweeten the upper portion of the root system as well as the deeper soil areas. Limestone does not move up in the soil but the solution goes downward. Lightly working manure into the soil before seeding pasture mixtures also gives them a boost in establishing root and top growth.

On steep slopes, Farnham says it is best to do all the plowing and disking on the level contour. He recommends that any sod draws that have developed should be left undisturbed to form grass waterways.

COLLEGE FOR CANINES

HEAVE FOR A RETRIEVE—Only the command, "Dead bird—fetch," will give this dog a chance to show how well he learned his retrieving lesson at Mick Helm's dog-training school near Lacombe, La. Sandbag is exactly a quail's weight.

HERE IT IS, FIDO—Early in the training of a bird dog at Lacombe, La., school, the dog is shown where the sandbag used for first retrieving practice is thrown.

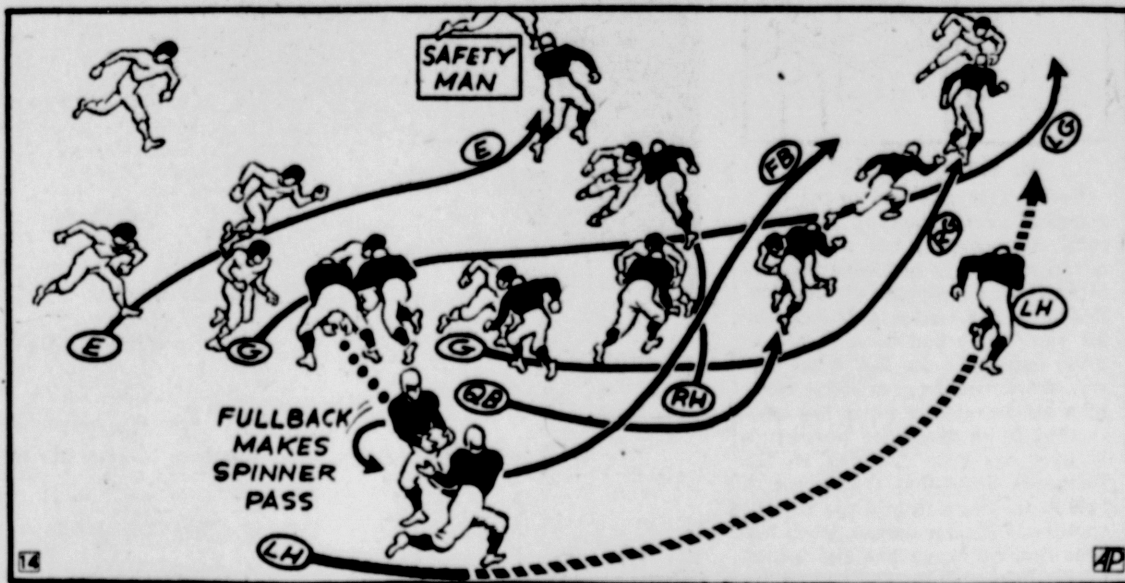

MAN'S THE MASTER—A "force collar" that slips and can be pulled tight at trainer's will is used to train dogs to obedience at commands, at Mick Helm's canine school. Some dogs that are "gun shy" flunk stiff course there.

HIS OWN IDEA—No punishment's involved here, at Helm training school. Hound just wanted to sit in the water.

'I LIKE THIS PLAY'

By FRANCIS A. SCHMIDT, Ohio State Coach

(Fourteenth in a Series)

This deceptive sweep to the right from a single wingback formation has produced touchdown runs ranging from a few feet to 80 yards for the Buckeyes. The fullback makes a full spin and goes into the line. During his spin he hands the ball to the left halfback, who circles the end. The halfback puts the ball on his right hip to hide it from the defensive left end. Ohio's left end and guard charge across for downfield blocking and the right pulls out to bump the defensive left halfback.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—News: G-Man Atherton, coast grid czar, reported ready to start blasting again. And the Alumni at Oregon and Oregon State are all set to raise plenty of you know what if he bumps any guys off their squads. . . . Instead of retiring Bill Klem, the National League now is considering making him supervisor of umpires, shifting Ernie Quigley to promotion work and umpire scouting. . . . Howard Jones says Stanford is every bit as good as the Duke and Tennessee teams which played in the Rose Bowl. . . . Jimmy Wilson's visit to Chicago has folks wondering if Phil K. Wrigley has changed his mind again about Gabby Hartnett.

Today's Guest Star

Fred Digby, New Orleans item: "Psyche: Jimmy Phelan of Washington U. must have known something was coming. . . . He left open the date for the Saturday preceding the Stanford game."

Tattle Tales

Billy Conn, who plays the numbers, hit for $1,800 when "686" turned up. . . . "The Angel" having petered out, "The Black Panther," a masked mystery man, is wrestling's new shot-in-the-arm. . . . Lou Little has hired a special scout who does nothing but scout the Columbia team each Saturday—for weaknesses. . . . The Broadway gossip is saying Babe Dahlgren will land with the Browns. . . . Michigan has an individual named Cliff Wise ready and waiting just in case Tom Harmon decides he wants to rest for a minute or so. . . . The National League has dropped Umpire Bill Campbell and will replace him with Ernie Stewart, one of the American Association aces. . . . The favorites are running no better at Pimlico than they did here.

Headline Headliner

In the wake of Arkansas' upset victory over unbeaten Mississippi U., George Bugbee wrote in the Memphis Press-Scimitar: "Suddenly, Ole Miss found it was fourth down and vertigo."

Sports Cocktail

For a team that drills only eight hours a week, we think those Annapolis Middies are doing a pretty fair country job of footballing. . . . Arturo Godoy and Tony Musto have signed to headline the Cleveland News' Xmas Fund show, December 2. . . . Herbert M. Woolf, owner of Lawrin, is going to name a full brother of the 1938 Kentucky Derby winner "Clyde M'Bride" in honor of the famous Kansas City sports editor. . . . Lew Jenkins, king of the lightweights, has begun training for his November 22 date with Pete Lello. . . . A Pittsburgh newspaper is crusading to get a new name for the Steelers. . . . Think mebbe it'll change their luck.

Won't Be Long Now

Colorado U. plays Missouri Saturday. . . . So appropriately enough, the Colorado press release reaching this desk today was headed: "Only three more shopping days until Christmas."

One-Minute Interview

Joe Cronin: "Boy, oh boy. . . . Where would my Red Sox go if we only had Cornell's pitchers? . . . Boy, oh Boy!"

Grid Mountain to Climb

Hereford, Tex. (AP)—Older brothers have long been the bane of a young man's existence but five sons of Judge W. H. Russell of this little West Texas town have cut out a particularly hard task for "little bud," 16-year-old Daniel. All five of the older Russell's lettered three years each on the Hereford high school Whiteface football team. All served as captain. Four of them went on to make outstanding players in college. One of the five is L. B. "Scat" Russell, one of Hardin-Simmons' "touchdown twins." Another is Jack Russell, backfield man with the championship Amarillo Junior college team and two years on Rice's backfield roster. Even Judge Russell himself played with the U. of Texas years ago. Daniel, 155-pound end, starts out his first year of football this year.

Retail gasoline prices in the United States averaged 12.33c per gallon on September 1 last, the lowest since November 1, 1934, according to information from 50 representative cities received by the American Petroleum Institute. The average retail price on August 1 was 12.58c and on September 1, 1939 was 13.38c.

PUNTS AND PASSES

(By The Associated Press)

Lafayette, Ind. — Twenty-five seconds represent the difference between a perfect record in Big Ten games and Purdue's two defeats in three conference games. The Boilermakers were beaten in the last 19 seconds to Ohio State when Charley Maag kicked a field goal, and were by Wisconsin in the last six seconds after outplaying the Dodgers. In their other Big Ten game they routed Iowa.

Durham, N. C.—Wes McAfee no longer has his perfect record of never having a pass intercepted, but Duke football fans say he ought to be credited with a record anyway. When Steve Lach jumped for a pass in the Georgia Tech game last Saturday and deflected it into the hands of Johnny Bosch, Tech halfback, it was the first interception of a McAfee pass in three years. Wes had thrown 78 and completed 39 of them.

New York.—It isn't that Lou Little, Columbia coach, doesn't think highly of the Cornell team that beat his Lions, 27-0, but he wants his team to be prepared for Wisconsin this week. "You're in for a tougher afternoon this week," he says.

In all probability, than you had at Ithaca last Saturday," Little warned. He based his statement on the fact that Wisconsin is the heaviest team and that it uses the Notre Dame style of attack, something the Lions haven't faced since 1933.

Milwaukee—Only three members of the Marquette squad, which plays Manhattan at New York Saturday, have seen the big town, and none has been there since he was in knee pants. Nevertheless, Coach Paddy Briell says: "This is no rubberneck trip. Our boys will see plenty of sights when Manhattan goes into action."

He Can 'Pull 'Em Down'

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—Meet Dale McAdams, 150 pounds of pure courage. Several years ago McAdams lost an arm from infection that developed after a wagon ran over it. That might have ended football dreams for an average boy, but Dale just worked harder when he entered Jackson high school here and now he is a regular guard on the varsity. "If I can lay a hand on 'em, I can pull 'em down," he says.

DRAFT FORM TO BE FILLED OUT BY REGISTRANTS

Order No. ....

Date of mailing .....

Name:

(First) (Middle) (Last)

Address

(Number and street or R. F. D. route)

(City or town) (County) (State)

NOTICE TO REGISTRANT

You are required by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 to fill out this Questionnaire truthfully and to return it to this Local Board on or before the date shown below. Willful failure to do so is punishable by fine and imprisonment.

This Questionnaire must be returned on or before .....

Member of Local Board.

(The above items are to be filled in by the Local Board before the Questionnaire is mailed to the registrant.)

INSTRUCTIONS

This Questionnaire is intended to furnish the Local Board with information to enable it to classify you in one of the following Selective Service classes:

Class I includes men who are available for induction into the armed forces of the United States.

Class II includes those whose induction is deferred because of the importance to the Nation of the service they are rendering in their civilian activities.

Class III includes those whose induction is deferred because they have persons dependent upon them for support.

Class IV includes those whose induction is deferred by law and those unfit for military service.

You will receive notice from your Local Board of your classification.

Oaths required in the Questionnaire may be administered by (1) a member or chief clerk of a Local Board or Board of Appeal, member or associate member of an Advisory Board for Registrants, or a Government Appeal Agent; (2) any Postmaster, Notary Public, or any Federal, State, county, or municipal officer authorized by law to administer oaths generally or for military purposes. No fee should be charged for this service.

Advisory Boards for Registrants are organized to assist registrants in completing their Questionnaires. No charge.

Any statements in this Questionnaire marked (Confidential) are for information only of the officials duly authorized under the regulations to examine them.

D. S. S. Form 49

will be made for this service. If there is no Advisory Board available, you must nevertheless complete your Questionnaire.

If the registrant is an inmate of an institution and is unable to complete the Questionnaire, the executive head of the institution shall communicate these facts immediately to the Local Board.

1. Make no alterations in the printed matter in this Questionnaire.

2. Write the applicable words in the spaces provided in the Questionnaire.

3. If you furnish additional information or affidavits with your Questionnaire, attach the same securely to it.

4. If you are already in the active military or naval service, obtain a certificate to that effect from your commanding officer and attach same to your Questionnaire.

5. After this Questionnaire has been returned, report to your Local Board at once any change of address or any new fact which may affect your classification.

WHEN A NOTICE AFFECTING YOU IS POSTED AT THE OFFICE OF YOUR LOCAL BOARD, YOU ARE BOUND TO PERFORM THE DUTY REQUIRED EVEN IF NO NOTICE REACHES YOU BY MAIL.

Series IV.—OCCUPATION OR ACTIVITY.—Continued

9. If you are not now working because of some seasonal or temporary interruption, attach to this page a statement (a) explaining what the interruption is, when it began, and when you expect to be able to resume your work, and (b) supplying substantially the same information regarding your last job as is required in the above items in this series.

10. I ..... licensed in a trade or profession; if so, I am licensed as .....
(Am, am not) (For example: Marine pilot, physician, aviator, stationary engineer)

11. I ..... at present an apprentice under a written or oral agreement with my employer.
(Am, am not)

12. Other facts which I consider necessary to present fairly the occupation which I have described, or my connection with it, as a ground for classification, are (if none, write "None"):

INSTRUCTIONS.—You may attach to this page any statement from your employer which you think the Local Board should consider in determining your classification. Such statement will then become a part of this Questionnaire.

Series V.—OTHER OCCUPATIONAL EXPERIENCE

INSTRUCTIONS.—Every registrant shall fill in this statement. Include any formal apprenticeship served.

1. I have also worked at the following occupations other than my present job, during the last 5 years: (If none, write "None")

OCCUPATION (Give full title, for example, turret-lathe operator, farmer, etc.)	Kind of Work Done (Be specific—give a brief statement of your duties)	YEARS WORKED

☐ wage hand (hired man) .....
☐ unpaid family worker .....
 My agreement (if any) expires ..... (Month) (Day) (Year)

2. I have farmed for ..... years. 3. I ..... live on the farm with which I am connected.
(Do, do not)

4. I ..... actually and personally responsible for the operation of the farm on which I work.
(Am, am not)

5. The principal crops and livestock of the farm I operate or work on are:

Names of Crops	Acres Devoted to Each	Kinds of Livestock	Number of Each Now on Farm

6. The number of hands employed on this farm is .....

7. Other facts which I consider necessary to present fairly the agricultural enterprise I have described and my connection with it as a ground for classification are: (If none, write "None.")

Series VII.—DEPENDENCY (Confidential except as to names and addresses of claimed dependents.)

INSTRUCTIONS.—Every registrant shall fill in the statements numbered 1, 2, and 3 in this series.

1. (a) I am ☐ single, ☐ married, ☐ a widower, ☐ divorced.
(Do, do not) on ..... (Month, day, year)
(b) If married, I married my present wife at ..... (City and State)
(c) I ..... live with her. If not, her address is .....
(Do, do not)

Series VII.—DEPENDENCY (Confidential except as to names and addresses of claimed dependents.)—Continued

2. I have ..... children who are under 18 years of age or are physically or mentally handicapped, and who live with me.

"DEPENDENT," AS USED IN THIS SERIES DEFINED
 The word "dependent," as used in this series, means any person to whose support the registrant contributes more than merely a small part of such person's support (or to whose support the registrant would contribute were he not temporarily prevented from so doing by the registrant's physical or economic situation) who is either (a) the registrant's wife, divorced wife, parent, foster parent, or grandparent, or (b) the registrant's child, unborn child, brother, half-brother, sister, or half-sister, who is under 18 years of age or is physically or mentally handicapped, or (c) a person whose support the registrant has assumed in good faith, who is either under 18 years of age or is physically or mentally handicapped. Only a person who is a United States citizen or who lives in the United States or its Territories or possessions may be regarded as a dependent.
 Based on the information contained in this Questionnaire and on other information which the Local Board may receive, the Local Board will determine whether the "dependent" is an individual who is dependent in fact for support in a reasonable manner in view of such individual's circumstances on income earned by the registrant by his work in a business, occupation, or employment.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Only those registrants who believe that one or more persons are dependent for support on the registrant's earnings from his work are required to fill in the statements numbered 3 through 12 in this series.

3. The following persons live with me in a home maintained by me and are entirely or partly dependent on my earnings from my work in my business, occupation, or employment, and have no other sources of income except as stated below:

Name	Sex	Age at last birthday	Relationship to registrant	Date when support began	Dependent's income, last 12 months other than board and lodging provided by the registrant in his home
					Contributed by the registrant	Earned by the dependent	Received from other sources

The net cost to me of maintaining my home during the last 12 months, after deducting $ ..... contributed by others than myself for the support of such dependents was $ .....

4. The following persons do not live with me in a home maintained by me, but are entirely or partly dependent on my earnings from my work in my business, occupation, or employment, and have no other sources of income except as stated below:

Name and address	Sex	Age at last birthday	Relationship to registrant	Date when support began	Dependent's income, last 12 months
					Contributed by the registrant	Earned by the dependent	Received from other sources
Address .....
Address .....
Address .....

5. The cause of the dependency of any persons over 18 years of age (excluding my wife) listed above is as follows: (Give the name and a full statement of cause for dependency in each case.)

6. Of my dependents, only the following are receiving a part of their support from persons other than myself. (Give name of dependent, name and address of other person or agency contributing to his support, and amount so contributed in cash or other things of value by such other person or agency during the last 12 months.)

THE ROOSEVELTS VOTE AT HYDE PARK

WENDELL WILLKIE AT HIS POLLING PLACE

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the presidency, accompanied by Mrs. Willkie, as they appeared at their polling place at 85th street and Madison avenue, Manhattan, to cast their votes. The candidate, who said in reply to a question that he was voting "straight Republican," was in the voting machine booth less than a minute.

FIRST TOWN TO VOTE BACKS WILLKIE

Residents of Sharon, N. H., which has 31 registered voters, cheer as they learn ten and one-half minutes after midnight—early on Election Day—that Wendell L. Willkie received 24 of their votes and President Roosevelt 7. All the Sharon voters appeared at midnight to cast their votes and the town was the first to announce complete returns. The seven votes set a new high for the Democrats. Two citizens hold oil lamps for illumination.

WENDY-LOUISE-WILLKIE

On Election Eve in New York city Mrs. Carl Cuttita gave birth to two girls and a boy and the triplets promptly were named (left to right) Wendy (5 pound 11 ounce girl), Louise (5 pound 4 ounce girl) and Willkie (6 pound 2 1/2 ounce boy). Here they are with their mother in the Infirmary for Women and Children on November 5.

Almost dwarfed by the colossal problem of caring for evacuees and refugees, the plight of deserted household pets has passed almost unnoticed in war-torn Europe. But the needs of thousands of wandering cats who were abandoned when the war started and people were evacuated from their homes, have not gone unheeded by one cat-lover, Mrs. Ruby Morgan of Godolphin Road, Sloughs, England. This humanely inclined woman has been a real friend of these four-footed war refugees by opening a "casual ward" to care for their comfort.

NEW PALTZ

W. C. T. U. Meets

New Paltz, Nov. 6—An executive meeting of the Ulster County Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Hiram Relyea on Church street, New Paltz, Wednesday. County President Mrs. Emma Carpenter, Plattkill, presided. Out-of-town members attending were: Mrs. Lillian Shultis, Kingston; Mrs. Eliza K. Young, Milton; Mrs. Stella Bernard, Clintondale; Mrs. Frank Black, Modena; Mrs. Eva Hare, Mrs. Dayton Relyea, Mrs. Seman, Walkill; Mrs. Teas, Mrs. James Swift, Miss Brinkerhoff, Highland; Mrs. Leslie Herring and Mrs. Van Aken, Port Ewen. The main business transacted was to start plans for entertaining the state convention in Kingston during the fall of 1941. Two Ulster County W. C. T. U. members have been honored by the state: Mrs. Emma Carpenter, Plattkill county president and Mrs. Hiram Relyea, New Paltz, were made life members in recognition of their loyal support to the organization. Mrs. Relyea presented with her life membership certificate at this meeting. Mrs. Carpenter received her's when attending the state convention this fall.

Village Notes

New Paltz, Nov. 6—Eileen Bennett spent the week-end in Wappingers Falls.

Mrs. Frank Elliott, Grace Elliott visited Kingston Saturday evening.

Danny Corwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Corwin, entertained at a Halloween party Wednesday night at his home on the New Paltz-Highland road. His guests were: Theodore Wood, Billy Randall, Billy Kurtz, Gerard Lockhart, Nelson Parker and Edgar Boyce. Refreshments were served and games enjoyed.

The Halloween party of Huguenot Grange was enjoyed by a number of young and old people last Saturday night. Arthur Hasbrouck, Walter Wiswar and Donald Wiseman furnished the music for the grand march and dancing. Mrs. Wayne Wiseman, Albert H. Schoonmaker and Frank DuBois acted as judges for costumes. Those rewarded were: Mrs. Bert Enlund as "Andrew H. Brown"; A. Cuthbert as a gypsy; Phyllis Dubois in Dutch costume; Jean Jansen as a white bunny and Louise Van Alst as a fat old lady. Community singing was led by Miss Jennie Lee Dann with Dr. A. C. Grimm accompanying on the piano. Games included: Going to Jerusalem, Apple Relay and a stunt with men climbing over waste baskets that weren't there. Refreshments in keeping with Halloween were served.

management of the Wagon Wheel on the New Paltz-Highland road.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will present a farce comedy "Aunt Abby Answers An Ad" on the evening of November 19.

The Young Married People's Club, namely the Century Club of the Reformed Church and so-called because it meets in the century room of the church, held its meeting Sunday evening at 7 o'clock when a light supper was served, after which an old-fashioned hymn sing and a discussion of Channing Pollock's recent article in the Reader's Digest: "Why I Don't Go to Church," took place. The club meets the first Sunday evening each month.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Shaw entertained Ivan A. Sorensen of Anoka, Minn., during the past week. Mr. Sorensen has just returned from a cruise on the U.S.S. Arkansas. He is a member of the United States Naval Reserves. He will complete his training at Northwestern University, Chicago. On Saturday afternoon they all attended the Army-Lafayette football game in Michie Stadium and saw Army lose 19 to 0.

Mrs. Harry Gerow visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram D. Wager in Modena Tuesday.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, Nov. 6—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Binns of Creek Locks and now of New York, visited here Thursday.

visited his sister, Mrs. Emma Dession, Friday.

J. Coutant of Jersey City, spent the week-end with his family.

Emma Dession spent Monday afternoon with the Hussmans.

The Ebber family is getting ready to return to New York for the winter.

Many old Halloween pranks were played on the folks Halloween night. Mr. Engleman's gates leading to his estate were carried away, but John Maschino was glad they left a pole in his driveway since he needed one for a radio aerial.
